King Fails to Mention Debts In Throne Talk To Parliament

Monarch Stresses Disarmament and Economic Conference in Speech
MAPS JOB CRISIS
Unemployment Is Greatest Modern Social Problem, He Declares

London.—(P)—The house of commons indulged this morning the glamorous ceremony of the opening of parliament, but quickly got down to business in a bitter debate between the government and the labor party.

George Lansbury, floor leader of the labor members, engaged in a heated discussion with Prime Minister MacDonald, charging that the government had no definite program for the relief of unemployment.

He minced no words, charging "bumbug" and characterized the government's plans as "downright cant."

This storm broke out after the members of the lower house had trooped back to their chamber from the house of lords where the king had opened the new parliament with a speech from the throne.

London.—(P)—King George ceremoniously opened the ninth parliament of his reign today with a speech touching on major world problems, but he omitted any mention of the momentous war debts issue up before President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt in the United States.

The king, with Queen Mary by his side, proclaimed broad national policies for the coming year, stressing the importance of disarmament, the world economic conference, the need for economy and farm relief, and the solution of the unemployment problem.

Ever-old yet ever-new, a pageant of heraldry and history, medieval ceremony marched with modern government for its setting in the house of lords at midday.

In fine, deep tones, the words of the royal address came from the king's mouth, but they were written for him by Ramsay MacDonald, the prime minister, and his cabinet colleagues.

Large numbers of my people are still unable to find employment," the king said, "and the persistence of this situation causes me the greatest anxiety. Unemployment as we have known it for some years is undoubtedly the gravest of social problems."

"In particular I am distressed that many young men and women have never in their lives had an opportunity of regular employment. In the view of my ministers any provision for unemployed persons should not only afford material assistance, but should also be designed to maintain their morale and fitness to resume work when opportunities can be found."

Insurance Proposals
"My government intends to bring forward measures dealing comprehensively with unemployment insurance and with the treatment of those unable to obtain work and the considerations I have mentioned will be borne in mind in framing their proposals."

The monarch expressed hope for success at the world economic conference in London early next year and declared Great Britain would continue to cooperate fully in the work of the disarmament conference at Geneva. He said the government was doing all possible to cope with agricultural depression, and steps had been taken and were being taken to enable industry to put itself in a position to take full advantage of a return to more favorable conditions.

The king and queen were sitting on their golden throne chairs, the queen a little lower than the king and the prince of Wales was seated below the dais, when the lord high chancellor, Lord Sankey, handed the monarch the throne speech.

After King George had read it, he handed the parchment back and the royal role was ended. It was then up to the prime minister and

Two Fatally Shot In Mystery Fight In Ohio Speakeasy

Alleged Slayer Taken to Cleveland Hospital in Critical Condition

Cleveland.—(P)—Two persons were shot to death and the alleged slayer, Abraham Auerbach, "master mind" of a nationally notorious alcohol conspiracy, was wounded here last night in a mysterious fight in a speakeasy.

The two killed were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Grossman, who owned the place, police said.

Auerbach, slashed on the throat and with one of his hands nearly severed by a knife, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. He was held under close guard although doctors said there was but little chance for his recovery.

Detective Philip Bova said Auerbach confessed killing Grossman when the latter cut his hand with a butcher knife. The slaying of Mrs. Grossman was unexplained.

Auerbach and his brother Louis were principal figures about 11 years ago in a plot involving the illegal diversion of 400,000 gallons of alcohol for a Cleveland bootleg ring, under pretense of making hair tonic and toilet water.

The brothers were sent to the Atlanta penitentiary in 1922 on two-year sentences, and later were transferred to the Dayton workhouse to serve out $10,000 fines. This would have required 32 years, but after they served six months, President Coolidge commuted $5,000 from each of the fines and the brothers paid the remainder and were released.

The wounded Auerbach was found last night lying near a table in the main room in the speakeasy. Grossman's body was in a doorway leading to a smaller side room. He had been shot twice in the abdomen and his head was nearly severed by a knife wound.

Mrs. Grossman's body was found in an automobile in an alley beside the speakeasy. She had been shot in the back, the bullet piercing her heart.

Appleton Youth Given Long Term

Byron Baurain Must Serve From Three to Seven Years in State Prison

Byron Baurain, 19, Appleton, was sentenced to serve two terms of from three to seven years each on charges of robbery by Judge N. J. Monahan in municipal court at Green Bay this morning. Baurain admitted holding up Thomson's restaurant and The Griddle, another restaurant, at Green Bay during October. The two sentences are to run concurrently.

Baurain was one of a gang of five Appleton boys who took part several weeks ago in a holdup of Van's cafe at Peshigo. When their car crashed, one of the gang, Raymond Kruse, 18, suffered a broken leg, and he was abandoned by the others. He was captured and gave the names of his companions. Baurain and Norman Kasten, 17, were captured the next day. The other two youths, Lionel Weyenberg and August Behnke, were arrested later at Neenah and taken to court at Oshkosh, where they were sentenced to terms of from five to 10 years for filling station holdups.

At Marinette Baurain and Kasten were placed on parole because this was their first appearance in court. Kasten, however, who has a record was sentenced to from one to 10 years at Waupun. Later Baurain was taken to Green Bay where he was arraigned and given the heavy penalty this morning because of his previous record at Marinette.

Wins Jury Award of $5,000 in Accident

Oshkosh.—(P)—The sum of $5,000 for pain and disfigurement will compensate Miss Inez Wheeler, Wausau, in addition to $1,762.75 for expenses, it was found by a circuit court jury here this morning in a case in which Miss Wheeler and Miss Laura Smith, also of Wausau, are plaintiffs against two insurance companies and two motor vehicle owners.

Prompt House O. K. for Beer Seen by Garner

Thinks Resulting Revenue And Expense Cuts Will Meet Budget

MAPS PROCEDURE
250 to 300 Million Income From Beer, Speaker Estimates

Washington.—(P)—Speaker Garner told newspapermen today that in his opinion "the house will pass a beer bill at the short session," but refrained from any forecast as to the probable time.

Garner said also that with a beer bill and reductions in government expenses it might be possible to secure a balanced budget without passing other forms of taxation.

"Asked what percentage beer he favored, the Democratic vice president-elect, said 'within the constitution.'"

"About 2.75 or 3 per cent," he was asked.

"Somewhere around that," Garner replied.

The speaker gave as a "guess" that legalized beer for revenue would bring in $250,000,000 to $300,000,000, annually.

Meanwhile, at the White House aides to President Hoover said the president had declined to discuss beer legislation yesterday with Representative Britten (R., Ill.) and that he had neither affirmed nor denied that a veto would be given any beer bill that congress enacts.

After meeting with the president yesterday, Mr. Britten said he had taken up beer legislation with the president, and predicted Mr. Hoover would not veto a beer bill.

No Talk of Veto
The Illinois representative declined to say what reaction Mr. Hoover had given to his beer talk, and intimated that his prediction of no veto was based upon an earlier conviction rather than any answer to a direct question.

Theodore Joslin, one of the president's secretaries, told newspapermen late yesterday that Mr. Hoover had declined to discuss such legislation with Britten.

The latter replied from Capitol Hill that since Joslin had not been present he could not be fully informed of what had passed between himself and the president. He reiterated that he had talked of such legislation, but did not say the chief executive had given him any reply.

Speaker Garner said that from January to May legislatures in from 35 to 40 states were meeting and would be able to take action to legalize the sale of beer within their borders.

He did not say whether he felt there should be additional tax legislation aside from beer.

"If business picks up," Garner said, "we've got enough tax laws on the books."

"With a beer bill and reduced expenditures we might approach a balanced budget."

Discussing procedure on beer legislation, Garner said the house judiciary committee should first ascertain what alcoholic content is constitutional. Then, he said, the ways and means committee could estimate on the revenue such beer would return.

Death Sentence to be Asked for Young Slayer

Chicago.—(P)—Death in the electric chair will be asked for James Varecha, 17-year-old confessed slayer of three men, the prosecution announced today.

Varecha, who has twice been admitted to the state asylum for epileptics, will go on trial tomorrow.

The prosecution's announcement came despite reports young Varecha would plead guilty in an effort to escape the death penalty. The youth has repeatedly stated he expects to be sentenced to 99 years because of his alleged physical condition.

Meanwhile, his brother, Frank, was held on a charge of accessory after the fact of murder. He told police he helped James dispose of the gun which the latter confessed he shot and killed Frank Jordan during a holdup last Wednesday night.

Wounded Man Facing Prohibition Charge

Milwaukee.—(P)—While authorities continued a search for his assailant, Joseph Emer, 31, shot Sunday night at his rooming house, was held today as a federal prisoner in a hospital where he was reported recovering from a wound in the chest.

Emer is charged with assisting in the manufacture of bootleg liquor discovered by police at the rooming house during their investigation of the shooting. Louis Zinsmeister, 42, divorced husband of Emer's landlady, was bound over for hearing Dec. 1 on a similar charge.

Factories Working on Clothing for Needy

Milwaukee.—(P)—Four Milwaukee factories are working on production of 25,400 dresses and 18,000 shirts to be distributed to the needy here about Dec. 12, it was announced today by Miss Margaret Sharp, executive secretary of the County Red Cross. Other articles of clothing are to be furnished by National Red Cross headquarters, she said. Distribution will be supervised by the county outdoor relief department, which does not provide clothing.

Lowell Resigns After 23 Years As Harvard Head

Gives No Reason for Retirement; Will Serve Until Next Spring

Cambridge, Mass.—(P)—Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university for 23 years, has resigned.

No reason for his resignation was given in the tersely worded announcement, which called attention to the fact that he will be 76 years old Dec. 13 and that the creation of the house plan has fulfilled a desire of years.

The house plan, born of a desire to destroy student cliques at Harvard and made possible through the generosity of Edward S. Harkness of New York, who gave $11,000,000 to build the necessary houses, is probably the greatest of Dr. Lowell's legacies to Harvard.

The resignation will become effective next spring or near the end of the college year, when his successor will be selected.

Dr. Lowell found Harvard an institution of 3,882 students and an endowment of $22,715,759 when he took office as 24th president of the country's oldest university. He will leave it with more than 8,000 students, and the largest endowment of any institution of higher learning in America, $123,415,390.

During Dr. Lowell's regime, freshman dormitories were erected along the banks of the Charles riv-

Hitler Not Likely To be Chancellor

Hindenburg Insists Upon Assurance of Safe Majority

Berlin.—(P)—Adolf Hitler's bid for the German chancellorship has been frustrated once again, it was generally thought today as the contents of a letter to him from President von Hindenburg leaked out.

It was understood the president responding to certain counter has proposal advanced by Hitler in connection with his acceptance of a mandate to form a new cabinet, had reiterated that whoever gets the job must be sure of a safe and continuous parliamentary majority.

This is something that Hitler cannot obtain, it appeared. Alfred Hugenberg, the Nationalist party leader, and the leaders of the Bavarian party rejected overtures from Hitler's associates. Hitler's own party is the strongest in the Reichstag, but without these two others he cannot have a majority.

It was expected, therefore, that he would send word to the president that he cannot put together a cabinet under the stipulations imposed upon him.

The president was reported to have written that he does not know Hitler well enough nor has he enough confidence in him to place him at the head of a government responsible only to the executive. He pointed out that in the past definite conditions always were attached by the president to any offer of the chancellorship.

Score Injured, 18 Jailed In Riot in Minneapolis

Minneapolis.—(P)—More than a score were injured, none seriously, and 18 arrests made during a clash between a group of 500 demonstrators and police in front of the city hall here yesterday.

Police said the demonstration was led by several members of the national hunger marchers here en route to Washington. The clash came when police halted one of the men speaking to the group.

Twelve of those suffering cuts and bruises were policemen. Charges of disorderly conduct were filed against those arrested.

In the battle, heads were battered and cut as the marchers advanced to the attack, swinging signs, fists and blackjacks.

In an instant reserve police and all the deputy sheriffs in the building streamed from the courthouse doors in answer to a riot call.

Issue Warrant For Motorist After Crash

Little Rapids Man to Face Charges Following Fatal Accident

WOMAN IS KILLED
Assistant District Attorney Makes Investigation At Kaukauna

A warrant charging manslaughter was to be issued today by Oscar J. Schmiede, assistant district attorney, for Albert Stelpe, Little Rapids, whose car struck and killed Miss Katherine Keller, 34, 542 N. Drew-st, Appleton, on Highway 41 in Kaukauna last night. Stelpe and a companion, Elmer Moller, Little Chute, were held by police in Kaukauna last night and then taken to the county jail where Moller was to be questioned. Stelpe was being held pending the issuance of the warrant and arraignment in municipal court this afternoon at Wednesday morning.

Miss Keller was instantly killed about 9 o'clock last night as she was walking along the highway within the Kaukauna city limits. She was returning from a visit at the home of her brother, Matt, her two nephews, Robert and Gerald Keller, accompanied her.

According to Mr. Schmiede, who was called and made an immediate investigation, Stelpe drove about a block and a half after hitting Miss Keller, before he turned around and came back to the scene of the accident. The body was thrown about 15 feet. There is no sidewalk where Miss Keller was walking. Mr. Schmiede said this morning that Stelpe claimed he was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour when the accident happened. Stelpe claimed, Schmiede said, that he didn't see the woman and didn't know what the car had struck until they turned around and came back.

Miss Keller was born in Kaukauna and lived there until nine years ago, when she moved to Appleton. She has been rooming at 541 N. Drew-st and had been employed at Geenen's. She attended Kaukauna schools.

Survivors are four brothers, Fred, Kaukauna, George, Wausau, John, Ellison, W. D., Phillips, Kaukauna, and four sisters, Mrs. John Keller and Mrs. Marie Gray, California; Margaret, Kansas; Elsie, and Agnes, Omaha, Neb. The body was taken to Fargo's funeral parlors and funeral services probably will be held Friday morning at Holy Cross church.

Wife Asks Freedom for Imprisoned Ex-Pastor

Oklahoma City.—(P)—A plea for the release of the Rev. S. A. Berrie, who entered the state penitentiary this week under a life sentence for the poison murder of his first wife, was made to Gov. W. H. Murray today by the 19-year-old second wife of the preacher.

It was accompanied by a letter from Dr. W. W. Osgood, Muskegon physician, who said Berrie, who is 52 years old, should "go to the mountains for his health as his case is on the border line of tuberculosis."

Mrs. Berrie wrote: "A petition is being prepared, as you know, praying Mr. Berrie's innocence. You will recall his association with you during the constitutional convention."

Governor Murray was president of the Oklahoma constitutional convention prior to statehood. Berrie was secretary to one of the convention members.

Without comment, Gov. Murray referred both letters to the pardon and parole officer.

Plans Being Made for Economic Conference

Geneva.—(P)—Norman Davis, America's representative, participated today in a meeting of the organization committee for the projected world economic conference.

The committee decided to call the attention of the league of nations economic experts to the necessity for preparing a program for that conference as soon as possible. Mr. Davis suggested that it would be a good idea to have a representative of China, as the biggest river country, included among the technicians who will deal with the problem of silver at the world conference.

Cambridge, Mass.—(P)—Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university for 23 years, has resigned.

No reason for his resignation was given in the tersely worded announcement, which called attention to the fact that he will be 76 years old Dec. 13 and that the creation of the house plan has fulfilled a desire of years.

It was expected, therefore, that he would send word to the president that he cannot put together a cabinet under the stipulations imposed upon him.

The president was reported to have written that he does not know Hitler well enough nor has he enough confidence in him to place him at the head of a government responsible only to the executive. He pointed out that in the past definite conditions always were attached by the president to any offer of the chancellorship.

Score Injured, 18 Jailed In Riot in Minneapolis

Minneapolis.—(P)—More than a score were injured, none seriously, and 18 arrests made during a clash between a group of 500 demonstrators and police in front of the city hall here yesterday.

Police said the demonstration was led by several members of the national hunger marchers here en route to Washington. The clash came when police halted one of the men speaking to the group.

Twelve of those suffering cuts and bruises were policemen. Charges of disorderly conduct were filed against those arrested.

In the battle, heads were battered and cut as the marchers advanced to the attack, swinging signs, fists and blackjacks.

In an instant reserve police and all the deputy sheriffs in the building streamed from the courthouse doors in answer to a riot call.

Issue Warrant For Motorist After Crash

Little Rapids Man to Face
Charges Following
Fatal Accident

WOMAN IS KILLED

Assistant District Attorney
Makes Investigation
At Kaukauna

A warrant charging manslaughter was to be issued today by Oscar J. Schmieg, assistant district attorney, for Albert Stelps, Little Rapids, whose car struck and killed Miss Katherine Keller, 34, 542 N. Drew-st., Appleton, on Highway 41 in Kaukauna last night. Stelps and a companion, Elmer Moller, Little Chute, were held by police at Kaukauna last night and then taken to the county jail where Moller was to be questioned. Stelps was being held pending the issuance of the warrant and arraignment in municipal court this afternoon or Wednesday morning.

Miss Keller was instantly killed about 9 o'clock last night as she was walking along the highway within the Kaukauna city limits. She was returning from a visit at the home of her brother, Matt, Her-ty-nephews, Robert and Gerald Keller, accompanied her.

According to Mr. Schmieg, who was called and made an immediate investigation, Stelps drove about a block and a half after hitting Miss Keller, before he turned around and came back to the scene of the accident. The body was thrown about 15 feet. There is no sidewalk where Miss Keller was walking. Mr. Schmieg said this morning that Stelps claimed he was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour when the accident happened. Stelps claimed, Schmieg said, that he didn't see the woman and didn't know what the car had struck until they turned around and came back.

Miss Keller was born in Kaukauna and lived there until nine years ago, when she moved to Appleton. She has been rooming at 542 N. Drew-st. and had been employed at Geenen's. She attended Kaukauna schools.

Survivors are four brothers, Matt, Kaukauna, George, Waupaca, John, Elison; N. D., Phillip, Kaukauna; and four sisters, Mrs. John Behler and Mrs. Mame Gray, California; Margaret, Kansas City, Mo., and Agnes, Omaha, Neb. The body was taken to Fargo's funeral parlor and funeral services probably will be held Friday morning at Holy Cross church.

Wife Asks Freedom for Imprisoned Ex-Pastor

Oklahoma City.—(P)—A plea for the release of the Rev. S. A. Berrie, who entered the state penitentiary this week under a life sentence for the poison murder of his first wife, was made to Gov. W. H. Murray today by the 19-year-old second wife of the preacher.

It was accompanied by a letter from Dr. W. W. Osgood, Muskogee physician, who said Berrie, who is 52 years old, should "go to the mountains for his health as his case is on the border line of tuberculosis."

Mrs. Berrie wrote: "A petition is being prepared, as you know, proving Mr. Berrie's innocence. You will recall his association with you during the constitutional convention."

Governor Murray was president of the Oklahoma constitutional convention prior to statehood. Berrie was secretary to one of the convention members.

Without comment, Gov. Murray referred both letters to the pardon and parole officer.

Plans Being Made for Economic Conference

Geneva.—(P)—Norman Davis, America's representative, participated today in a meeting of the organization committee for the projected world economic conference.

The committee decided to call the attention of the league of nations economic experts to the necessity for preparing a program for that conference as soon as possible. Mr. Davis suggested that it would be a good idea to have a representative of China, as the biggest suffering country, included among the technicians who will deal with the problem of silver at the world conference.

Voluntary Plan Urged For Work Insurance

Milwaukee.—(P)—The Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, in resolutions adopted at its annual meeting here today, urged employers to create voluntary unemployment insurance plans.

Other resolutions demanded that governmental economies be achieved by consolidation of bureaus and units of government, and frowned on two proposed constitutional amendments.

The resolution urging voluntary plans was presented by Fred H. Clausen, Horicon manufacturer, who in sponsoring it, contended it was better for employers to make their own plans than to have one forced on them by the state.

Record Vote Cast at Milwaukee County Polls

Milwaukee.—(P)—Milwaukee-co citizens cast 268,761 votes in the presidential election, the largest poll on record, it was revealed by the canvass of the election commission.

The tabulation showed that President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt received 170,202 votes, to 54,693 for President Hoover. Norman Thomas, Socialist, received 32,874.

For governor the county gave Walter G. Schmiedeman 131,158; Alfred J. Kohler, 87,911 and Frank McCall, Socialist, 42,407.

World Awaits Result Of Hoover-Roosevelt Conference on Debts

Debt Situation in Brief

Washington.—(P)—Here in brief is the war debt situation involved in the Hoover-Roosevelt conference today:

Total debt, $11,586,501,461 plus $184,000,000 in interest postponed under the moratorium.

Total paid by foreign nations $2,627,580,397.

Moratorium under which fifteen debtor countries obtained one-year suspension of payments expires Dec. 15.

Three countries—Great Britain, France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia—have petitioned for another suspension pending new study of problem looking to revision.

Congress is on record against another moratorium, cancellation or revision.

Both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt have declared in recent public utterances against cancellation.

Mr. Hoover a year ago recommended recreation of war debt commission—a recommendation rejected by congress.

Strive to Solve Milk Problems

Milwaukee Dealers and Producers Meet State
Representatives

Milwaukee.—(P)—Milwaukee milk dealers and officers of the producers' association, heading a request of the department of agriculture and markets, met with state representatives today in an effort to solve their milk problems.

Negotiations toward fixing a price for November and December milk were held up until after the conference, after which the agriculture department's hearing was to be resumed.

Testimony at yesterday's hearing centered around the two-price plan in existence in the Milwaukee area, under which farmers are now paid a fluid milk price of $1.75 a hundred for 35 per cent milk and 73 cents for surplus.

A. H. Christman, Menomonee Falls, former director of the Milwaukee Milk Producers cooperative and now a director of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk pool, said he favored the two-price plan, but not the abuses which it had developed.

"Fluid milk is being placed arbitrarily high and the surplus ruthlessly low," he testified. This low price on surplus often encourages the dealer to divert milk and encourages a large surplus. He can take this surplus, purchased for 73 cents a hundred and divert it to a condensary where the canned milk price is around 20 cents more."

He said records showed dealers are going as far as Marshfield for their cream, and expressed the opinion that the Milwaukee market should be confined to producers closer to Milwaukee.

Question Authenticity Of Madison Paintings

Madison.—(P)—The authenticity of a number of works of art bequeathed to the state historical society by the late Charles Noble Gregory of Washington, D. C., former dean of the University of Wisconsin Law school, was in dispute here today.

Laurence Schmeckebier, assistant professor of art history, precipitated an inquiry when he expressed the opinion that the paintings credited to Michael Angelo, Rubens, Raphael, Titoretto and others were spurious.

Miss Anna Nunn, assistant superintendent of the society, who recently went to Washington to supervise shipment of the paintings, said the society possessed correspondence showing they were purchased from a reputable London dealer and that "there is no one in Madison competent to judge them."

LaCrosse Officers End Counterfeit Money Game

LaCrosse.—(P)—With the arrest and confession of George Russell, 68, a resident of French Island, near here, LaCrosse police believe they have broken up a counterfeit money game. Russell said he had been operating a counterfeit plant in his home where he made coins of 10, 25 and 50 cent denominations.

Portion of Scott's Manuscript Stolen At New York Exhibit

New York.—(P)—One-third of the original manuscript of Sir Walter Scott's novel "Guy Mannering," owned by J. P. Morgan, has been stolen from the Scott Centenary exhibit in the Library at Columbia university.

The manuscript, bound in three leather volumes, was sent to the centenary exhibit by the financier, who has a famous private library containing hundreds of rare books and manuscripts of almost incalculable value.

The missing manuscript was the second of the three volumes. The first and third volumes were untouched by the thief.

Democrats Plan "Victory" Event Here on Dec. 1

Ask Schmiedeman, Broughton, Duffy and Hughes
To Speak at Meeting

Plans are being made by the Outagamie-co Democratic committee for a victory dinner and program at Elk hall Thursday evening, Dec. 1. Arrangements are being made by Stephen D. Balliet, county chairman, and John Roach, county secretary, and it is expected that approximately 300 prominent county Democrats will attend.

Invitations have been extended to A. G. Schmiedeman, Madison, governor-elect; C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan, national Democratic committeeman; F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, U. S. senator-elect; and James H. Hughes, De Pere, eighth district congressman-elect, to attend the dinner and give short talks. Invitations also are being issued by the committee to prominent Democrats in surrounding counties.

Mr. Balliet, in his invitations, is pointing out that Outagamie-co this year gave tremendous majorities to Roosevelt, Schmiedeman and Duffy and that it is in celebration of this victory and the state and national victories that the local event is planned. Tickets for the dinner will be distributed through members of the county Democratic committee.

Following the talks and a short program of entertainment, Mr. Balliet plans to speak to young Democrats of the county, who are being especially urged to attend, the organization of a permanent Young Democratic club. Members of the county committee are pledged to bring one or more prospective young Democrats to the meeting with them.

"Champion Liar of U. S." Ready to Defend Title

Burlington, Wis.—(P)—O. F. Bults, Bay City, Mich., who won the title of champion liar of the United States at the annual contest here last year, served notice yesterday that he will make a vigorous defense of his crown at this year's competition.

In a letter to the Burlington Lias club, sponsor of the contest, he said:

"I will send the badge back by Dec. 1. I expect it back by Jan. 1, 1933. I have got four stories to send, if I am allowed that many. I expect to take the boys over a rough road this year."

Whether the president will continue his advocacy of reviving the war debt commission in the face of congressional opposition his aides would not say. When newspapermen put the question to Secretary Mills his answer was:

"Such an organization would be very helpful right now."

Nor would those at the executive mansion discuss how closely Mr.

Dancer and Singer Refuse to Wait 5 Days to be Married

Boston.—(P)—Gilda Gray, the dancer, and Arthur Jarrett, the singer, applied for a marriage license at the Boston city hall yesterday, but when informed they could not get the five-day law waived without the signature of a judge, they abandoned their plans—for the present at least.

Previously they had called on Mayor Curley and told him of their plans, he said:

"I know you don't mean it, but I will congratulate you. You're not kidding me."

When told they would have to see the judge to get the waiver, Miss Gray turned to Jarrett and said "well, you're not going to cry are you?"

Precedent-Making Conference Today at White House

PLANS ARE CHANGED

Italy Awaits Negotiations Before Taking Definite Stand

Washington.—(P)—Poland today joined the nations serving notice they want reconsideration of the debt question. The Polish ambassador informed him that his country would send a note later asking for extension of the moratorium and reconsideration of the problem.

Rome.—(P)—Italy is taking no action for the moment regarding its debt to the United States, awaiting negotiations between America and France and England. It was said, however, that this country is ready to pay if the $15,000,000 installment due Dec. 15 is not postponed.

Washington.—(P)—Under a second shift in plans, arrangements were made today for the Hoover-Roosevelt conference to be held in a downstairs room of the White House proper instead of the hallowed study upstairs.

Just where it would take place this afternoon, White House aides said they were uncertain. A secretary said the scene probably would be either the green room or the red room, both formal chambers seldom used except for meetings ruled by the strict etiquette of government.

The important talk originally was set for the executive offices, but later was changed to the White House study.

Although there was some uncertainty also as to who would meet Mr. Roosevelt upon his arrival here, it was said Captain Walter Vernou, the White House naval aide, probably would be delegated to meet the president-elect.

There was expectancy in official Washington as time for this afternoon's precedent-shattering conference between a defeated president and his successor-elect approached. Their meeting time was 4 p. m.

Informal Discussion

As Mr. Roosevelt himself headed for the White House this morning from New York his latest formal should be that the conference would be wholly personal and informal, and that responsibility for debt action should rest with present authorities until he himself takes office.

Although none, including the president who guarded closely his thoughts, could foresee the outcome of their meeting one of the four men who will attend—Secretary Mills—held three possibilities to be open. He listed them as a joint program for presentation to congress, word by the president to congress, recommendations to be sent to Capitol Hill by Mr. Hoover alone, or suggestions transmitted by Mr. Roosevelt to Democratic congressional leaders with whom he will meet tomorrow.

"Of course the president has his own definite idea on this whole debt question," Mills said. "The interesting thing, however, is what Mr. Roosevelt is going to do and what his ideas will be."

The already complex debt question was added to today by publication of a memorandum from Czechoslovakia, aligning that country with Great Britain, France and Belgium in asking for "reconsideration of this problem and an extension of the suspension on payments for the duration of this consideration."

Robins Knows Identity Now, Doctor States

Recognizes Wife as Memory Comes Back to Him Gradually in Hospital

Asheville, N. C. — (P) — "Reynolds Rogers," the strange character who appeared in a mountain village three months ago from "Kentucky way" was no more today.

In his place once again is Col. Raymond Robins, social worker and promotion advocate, who, after insisting for three days he was "Rogers," recognized, his physicians said, his wife and his identity for the first time late yesterday.

A statement was issued by the family, approved by Dr. Mark A. Griffin, psychiatrist in charge of the case, that Robins' memory apparently is restored and that "he seems well on the way to normal health."

"Colonel Robins is still in need of rest and will not be disturbed," the statement added.

For two days Robins, whose disappearance Sept. 3 created a national mystery, had been under the care of a physician, wearing the heavy beard and overalls in which he had tramped the mountains prospecting, contending he was "Rogers."

Twice his wife had seen him and both times he said he did not recognize her.

When Mrs. Robins first entered her husband's room on the third day, he did not recognize her and seemed to be undergoing great strain, the family statement said.

After a few minutes, it continued, Robins turned to Dr. Griffin and asked: "Do you say this is my wife?"

Under Great Strain

"He obviously was suffering from a severe strain," the statement said. Dr. Griffin answered in the affirmative and there was silence for half a minute.

"I went to Mr. Robins and gave him my hand," Mrs. Robins said. "And then, slowly but steadily the change came. It was not all of a sudden and was visibly a severe strain to the colonel, but there came into his face a completely new look. He looked into my face and seemed to be thinking."

After exchanging greetings, the colonel turned to the doctor and said: "Doctor, I am Raymond Robins and this is my wife Margaret Dreier Robins."

Robins then recognized John Dreier, nephew who had positively identified him Friday in the village of Whittier.

Members of the family expressed joy at the "happy ending" of the case, and Dr. Griffin said, "I am happy to think that the crisis indicated the end of the trouble."

After remaining alone with his wife for an hour, Colonel Robins was shaved and discarded his overalls for a suit.

Robins will remain at the sanitarium, Appleton, until the family is fully rested and desirous of proceeding elsewhere, his family said. "No future plans of any sort have been decided upon."

Robins' disappearance Sept. 3 gave rise to various reports, including some that he had been downed away from his bootlegging because of his prohibition activities. After his first examination, Dr. Griffin said he was suffering from amnesia or a similar mental malady.

Lowell Resigns As Harvard Head

Dr. Lowell's resignation was announced today by the Harvard faculty, which rose in the Harvard-Yenching library laboratory, the Geography building, the Biological Institute, the new Harvard Faculty club and the $1,000,000 World War Memorial chapel have all become a part of Harvard since 1909.

Dr. Lowell was largely responsible for raising the money for the new Harvard Business school buildings, situated on the opposite bank of the Charles from the freshman dormitories.

2. Others Served Longer

He held the distinction of serving longer than any other president in Harvard's history with two exceptions, one of them his immediate predecessor, Charles William Eliot, who headed Harvard for 40 years.

He has contended that studies come first and sports should be subordinate. He has insisted on only "scholarship" game away from home each year, breaking the rule but twice, once to allow the Harvard team to travel to the Tournament of Roses for a game on New Year's day in 1920, and later to allow Harvard to play Brown at the dedication of Brown's new stadium.

His house plan realigned the existing social life at Harvard by subdividing the college into seven smaller units or houses.

President Lowell attended school in Boston, and was graduated from Harvard college in 1877, from Harvard Law school in 1880. For 17 years thereafter, he practiced law in Boston. He became a lecturer on government at Harvard in 1897 and 1900 was appointed professor of government.

His wife, the former Anna Parker Lowell of Boston, died in March, 1930.

He has no comment to make on his future.

High School Groups To Hear Jap Student

Salgado Tsuru, Japanese student at Lawrence college, will lead a discussion on Internationalism at the meeting of Appleton high school Hi-Y clubs and the Girl Reserves at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening. The meeting is one of several joint sessions the two high school groups hold every year.

ROBINS' RETREAT AND HIS YOUNG DISCOVERER

In this frame building, the McHan boarding house in Whittier, N. C., Col. Raymond Robins, dry leader and friend of President Hoover, lived for more than two months while a nation-wide search was conducted for him. Said to have been suffering from an unusual form of amnesia, Colonel Robins, shown in inset, had assumed the name of Reynolds Rogers, and declared that he was a mining engineer. Placed under observation in Asheville, N. C., he continued to deny his identity and failed to recognize his wife until late Monday when his memory came back to him gradually. At the right, Carl Byrd Fisher, 13-year-old Whittier, N. C., schoolboy is generally credited with the discovery that Reynolds Rogers, his Sunday school teacher, was really the missing dry leader, Col. Robins. He had accompanied "Rogers" on hikes through the mountains.

MANCHURIA: THE AMERICAN INTEREST

Nearly a year ago, on December 10, the Council of the League of Nations decided to set up a Commission of Enquiry into the Manchurian question. Japan and China both formally agreed with the proposal, and the United States gave its moral approval. This commission, which took its name from its chairman, the Earl of Lytton, spent five months studying the situation in Japan, in China, and in Manchuria. On October 2 its report was published. This report is now before the Council of the League.

Thus the time has come when decisions have to be taken about the Manchurian question.

What, then, is the interest of the United States in the Manchurian question?

Manchuria is a large territory, potentially rich and strategically important. Three nations have a direct national interest. They are China, Russia and Japan. The United States has no direct national interest. Thirty years ago, perhaps even as recently as fifteen years ago, there were reasons for thinking that the United States might have some sort of imperialistic ambition in Manchuria. But that ambition, if it ever existed was finally renounced at the Washington Conference of 1922 when the United States agreed to a limitation of ravines which makes her incapable of exerting naval power in Asiatic waters. It is of the utmost importance that the Japanese people realize that the United States is not now in any sense whatever a rival in the Far East. The United States does not desire to deprive Japan of anything in order to obtain that thing for herself.

Why then does the United States concern herself at all with the Far Eastern question? There are two reasons. The first is that the restoration of peace and order in the East is necessary to the maintenance of peace and order in the West. The effects of disorder and of eventual war in Asia could not be confined to China, Japan, and Russia, the three nations directly involved. It would disturb the trade and tranquility of the whole Pacific and it would cause difficulty and danger the world around through the unsettlement of affairs on the European frontiers of Russia. The United States could not without being guilty of great negligence fail to use all her influence and good offices now to prevent the situation in the Far East from hardening to a point where it is insoluble by negotiation.

The second American interest is closely allied to this one. It is to uphold the collective machinery of peace established after the Great War. For only by upholding that machinery has modern civilization any chance of a secure prosperity. This interest has been eloquently expressed by the Earl of Lytton in a recent article: "Our Commission was told repeatedly that Japan has fought two wars upon its (i. e. Manchuria's) soil, that she had sacrificed 200,000 lives and spent a billion yen to acquire the rights and interests which she now claims there, that these historical associations were indelibly stamped upon the heart of every Japanese, and that Japan was very sensitive about any outside interference in matters which she claimed to be her sole concern. All this we accepted and have duly recorded in our Report, but we felt it our duty to remind the Japanese Foreign Minister that there was one thing for which other nations had made even greater sacrifices, and which they were equally determined to defend, and that was the organization of collective responsibility for the maintenance of peace."

The Japanese have attempted to solve the Manchurian problem by occupying Manchuria, detaching it from China, and setting it up as an "independent" state under Japanese control. The United States, under the Stimson Doctrine which was declared on January 7, 1932, has declined to recognize this solution. The Lytton Report completely justifies the judgment of President Hoover and Secretary Stimson and says that "the maintenance of and recognition of the present regime in Manchuria... does not appear to us as compatible with the fundamental principle of existing obligations, nor with the good understanding between the two countries upon which peace in the Far East depends. It is opposed to the interests of China. It disregards the wishes of the people of Manchuria, and it is at least questionable whether it would ultimately serve the permanent interests of Japan" (Chapter IX, p. 128).

The most impressive finding of the Lytton Report is not that the seizure of Manchuria was contrary to the treaties. That is very important but it has been plain to all disinterested observers and to many Japanese from the beginning. The Lytton Commission makes it perfectly plain that Manchukuo is an artificial creation which has failed to restore order in Manchuria and offers no promise of order in the future. The sixth chapter of the Lytton Report should be read by those who think that morals and law aside, Japan should be allowed to impose order on Manchuria. That chapter, based on prolonged investigation on the spot, shows clearly that Japan has on her hands the task of pacifying an overwhelmingly hostile population occupying a territory which is larger than her own. The military maps accompanying the report show that as late as August 20, after eleven months of military effort, Japanese authority was still confined to the valleys containing the railroads, and that in all directions beyond there were still hostile Chinese armies in being. The Japanese Government, it is replied to the Lytton Report, admits that in fourteen months it has not succeeded in restoring order in Manchuria.

It is quite misleading to say, therefore, that President Hoover, Secretary Stimson, the Lytton Commission and the members of the League, have on idealistic and theoretical grounds refused to recognize the realities in Manchuria. The direct opposite is the truth. It is the Japanese who are unrealistic when they imagine that they can solve the Manchurian question by a forcible creation of an artificial state like Manchukuo. They have made much the same mistake that Napoleon made when he invaded Russia, and they will be fortunate if they extricate themselves without a disaster. That the danger to Japan from this entanglement is genuine and pressing the state of her finances and of her credit bears witness.

Therefore, even if on legal and moral grounds it were possible to recognize Manchukuo, it would be contrary to the interests of Japan for the powers to do so. If the United States were really hostile to Japan, it would encourage Japan to ruin herself in Manchukuo. But being friendly, it will do nothing of the sort. For what Japan needs now

Social Workers to Hear Miss Foster

Civic Council Will Not Ask Appropriation For Playgrounds

Another of the series of lectures by Miss Edith Foster of the state industrial commission for volunteer social workers will be held at 7:30 tonight at the city hall. The course has been sponsored by the Civic Council and tonight's lecture will be the fourth of a series of six to be held before the Christmas holidays.

At a meeting of the Civic Council last night, the first three lectures were discussed, and it was decided to let those attending lectures decide on whether they should be continued after the holidays.

The Council also discussed the question of directed playgrounds, but decided that it would not ask for an appropriation for the work from the common council this year. Last year the money was placed in the budget, but later cut.

ADD 100 EMPLOYEES

Auburn, N. Y. — (P) — The Auburn plant of the International Harvester company has increased the number of its employees from 100 to 200 in the last two weeks, the officers announced today, and by January they expect to have 600 at work.

It is not to be confirmed in the dangerous experiment, but to be shown an honorable way of liquidating it. It should be, and undoubtedly will be, the subject of American policy to cooperate with the other powers in offering to arrange a way which is consistent with the conclusions of the Lytton Report by which Japan can extricate herself from a very dangerous position. Such a policy must clearly have for its ultimate aim a peace conference between Japan and China in which all their outstanding differences can be compromised.

The way to such a conference is still open. When Japan and China are ready to take it, the United States will have no special claims of her own to assert and will ask for nothing for herself except adherence to the principle of the Kellogg Pact, that this great question be dealt with by measures involving no military force.

Note For Mr. Will Rogers

Mr. Rogers, having undertaken to tell Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt what to say at their conference, puts these words into their mouths: "Mr. Roosevelt: What were your campaign promises?"

Mr. Hoover: No postponements and no cancellations.

Mr. Roosevelt: Mine. "No. What do you say, just for a novelty, that both parties keep their campaign promises?"

If either Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt said anything whatever about postponement during the campaign, it's news and it would be so kind as to say when either candidate mentioned the subject.

College Theatre Opens Current Dramatic Season

"Arms and the Man," by Shaw, Presented in Able Manner

The Lawrence College Theatre, under the direction of F. Theodore Cloak, opened its current dramatic season Monday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel with "Arms and the Man," by George Bernard Shaw, before an audience which nearly filled the lower floor of the auditorium. Letter-perfect in lines, the characters were peculiarly adapted to the parts they portrayed, working themselves into the roles and remaining in character throughout the performance. Colorful costumes and charming sets dated the play, the action of which takes place in Bulgaria in 1885 and 1886 in the home of a Bulgarian officer.

Alcemy Whittier, as Raina, the romantic young girl who idealizes war and soldiering, was outstanding in her portrayal of the fiancée of a soldier. She showed remarkable stage presence and displayed an easy and unconscious manner before her audience. She was especially good in the first act when she played a long scene with the fugitive enemy soldier, hiding him in her room and feeding him chocolate creams. Her movements were spontaneous, unforced, and expressive, adding much to the interpretation of the character she portrayed.

He's Good Soldier

Eric Volkert as Bluntchli, the fugitive Swiss, gave an admirable performance of the typical Shaw character. Without illusions as to the glory of war, yet cynically the ordinary young officer who led the cavalry charge into the face of the artillery he is calm and unmoved in the face of danger, not so much because he is brave but because he is a good soldier. Volkert's interpretation of the worn-out fugitive whose main interest is sleep was very good, his listless voice and hesitant manner giving the impression of extreme fatigue.

The character of Sergius was admirably interpreted by Roy McNeil who gave just the right degree of pompousness and romantic droll to the figure around which Raina had woven her girlish dreams. At first a rather unsympathetic character, he became an heroic person, almost a martyr, through his avowal of love for Lou, Raina's maid. The part of the maid was taken by Dorothy Howell who gave a fine presentation as the rebellious servant who is not content to be a servant all her life.

Plays Part Well

Her insolent manner and pert answers and her lively leading on to Sergius were well done, and her scenes with Nicola, played by Carson Harwood, to whom she is betrothed, gave opportunity for light comedy as well as for lines in a philosophical vein. Nicola, a servant who "knows his place," also knows his own interests, for he quickly gives up his fiancée to one higher than himself when he sees that his own interests might be furthered by it.

Most of the comedy of the play is provided by the character of Catherine, Raina's mother, taken by Lucille Ozanne, who never loses an opportunity to impress people with the fact that there is one of the oldest and richest families in Bulgaria, and that they possess the only library in the community. In the last act, the scene of which is laid in the "library," the one-foot shelf containing about five volumes is prominently displayed against the back wall of the set. Miss Ozanne was excellent as the mother who has a hand in her daughter's marriage as well as the settling of questions of warfare.

Peasant at Heart

The husband, Petkoff, played by Roland Beyer, was fine as the seasoned soldier risen from the ranks, but still a peasant at heart, shouting for his servant instead of ringing the bell his wife has installed during his absence. His denunciation of his modern, cynical, and amusing, Donald Wright as a Russian officer carried a minor part capably.

One of the high lights of the play is the scene in the garden of the Petkoff home when the contrast between the paid soldier, Bluntchli, and the unpaid, "heroic" Sergius, is brought out with power and vividness. When challenged to a duel by Sergius, Bluntchli replies that since he is the challenged, he will choose his own weapon, which, he says, will be a machine gun. The complete lack of heroics on the part

Breweries Working For Legalized Beer Before Christmas

Chicago — (P) — The Associated Producers of Cereal Beverages, representing 45 breweries, today was engaged in an offensive to get America out of the dry trenches by Christmas.

Beer—2.75 per cent alcoholic content—at 5 cents a glass was the slogan of the association.

At a meeting here yesterday the group organized plans to put legislation to that end in the hands of congress as soon as it convenes.

William L. Goetz, St. Joseph, Mo., brewer, president of the association said: "We don't want to antagonize the Anti-Saloon league and hence we resolved on 2.75 per cent beer, which is non-intoxicating."

The move, he said, would put the gangsters out of the beer business because of the low price and because of the government tax which would erase profits for illegal brewers.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any grocery, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and breaks the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Historic Room Used for Hoover-Roosevelt Parley

Washington — (P) — The White House room chosen for today's meeting of Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, president and president-elect, is the self-same chamber in which President Lincoln signed the famed Emancipation proclamation.

It was in this same setting that Mr. Hoover conferred with Ramsay MacDonald, Pierre Laval and Dino Grandi. These talks centered at least in part of international financial obligations and disarmament subjects to be talked over again today.

The quiet study, on the second floor of the executive mansion, facing the broad fountain-studded south grounds, has been re-arranged by the president. He has placed in it objects believed to have stood in the White House in Lincoln's time and he is the first chief executive to refer to it invariably as the Lincoln study.

There are bookshelves on three sides of the room, broken on one by a marble-mantelled fireplace. Small soft rugs are on the polished hardwood floor.

Between the windows is the broad desk said to have been used by the Civil war president. Four of the chairs in the room are believed to have stood in the executive mansion in Lincoln's time. The mantle clock also dates back close to the time of the emancipator.

Among the prints and pictures on the wall is one portraying Lincoln reading the Emancipation proclamation to his cabinet and another showing him looking from one of the room's windows at Potomac campfires visible across the Potomac.

Hoover's Aid at Odds With Britten

Joelin Denies Illinois Man Discussed Dry Law With President

Washington — (P) — A disagreement over whether he had discussed beer legislation with President Hoover existed today between Representative Britten (R., Ill.) and Theodore Joelin, a presidential secretary.

Coming from a conference with the president, Britten predicted that congress approved a bill legalizing beer at the forthcoming session Mr. Hoover would not veto it.

Although intimating that this prediction was based on a prior belief, he said he spent much of his ten minutes with Mr. Hoover yesterday talking about possible beer legislation. He refused to state the chief executive's response to this conversation.

Several hours later Joelin told newspapermen that "the president declined to discuss the subject with Mr. Britten."

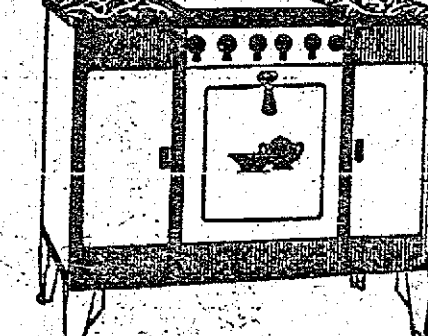

Britten's reply to this last night was: "I do not wish to enter into a controversy with Mr. Joelin, but as he was not in the room when I talked with the president he is thoroughly unqualified to say what really transpired during our conference."

"I reiterate I am confident that President Hoover will not veto a beer-revenue bill which will be passed by the coming session of congress."

Red Cross to Hold Roll Call Meeting

The final meeting for workers in the annual Red Cross roll call will be held at 8:45 Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. It was announced today by George E. Johnson, financial chairman of the drive. The campaign "started" last Tuesday morning.

There have been no reports since Friday evening, at which time 1,227 members were reported. The Appleton quota is 1,800. Reports from the county branch are expected at Tuesday's meeting. The county quota is 700 members and if both city and county are reached the total will reach the 2,200 total set for Outagamie Co.

Cherkasky and Singler Clash At Ward Meet

Informal Debate Over Proposed Milk Strike Features Program

An unexpected debate developed between Walter M. Singler, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, and Ben Cherkasky, president of the Appleton Pure Milk company, at the meeting of the Sixth Ward Voters' club at Roosevelt school last night. The debate finally postponed, will be renewed at the next club meeting.

Singler attended the meeting at the request of officers, to discuss the pool's proposed milk strike which goes into effect on Dec. 1, if butterfat has not risen 5 cents by that time. The debate developed when Cherkasky was called on, at the conclusion of Singler's talk, to state his side of the case. Singler remained to listen to Cherkasky, and heated arguments followed. Cherkasky declared that he didn't blame the so-called cooperative leaders for attempting to organize the 140,000 dairy farmers of the state at $2 apiece. A nice sum to work for, $230,000, he pointed out.

Singler immediately jumped to his feet, and declared that in answer to Cherkasky's charge of mercenary motives, so far as he was concerned, there was but one answer.

"That's a lie!"

Praises Department

Cherkasky took the leaders of all cooperative movements, including the milk pool, to task for their attacks on the state department of agriculture and markets.

"C. I. Hill, one of the commissioners, is an experienced and seasoned farmer," he said. "He knows what is good for the farmer and what isn't. Why should the farmers, then, listen to men like you meaning Singler who can't even begin to compare with men like Hill."

"So far as I'm concerned," Cherkasky shouted, "I am satisfied that our state department is doing everything it can to help the farmer. All they need is patience. I am willing to abide by the results of their efforts. If I am going to hell I'll go with the state department, but I won't go to hell with the milk pool."

Cherkasky charged that the milk pool's idea of a strike couldn't succeed because its efforts would be confined to Appleton, with only a few farmers participating, and that the result would be that other farmers and city residents would suffer. He said that if men like Singler wanted to do some good, they should invade the board of trade at Chicago and the cheese market at Plymouth where the prices are set. He scoffed at Singler's plea of cost of production plus a fair profit, which the milk pool leader said was the aim of his organization. Cherkasky declared it was impossible to determine cost of production because of the varied items which enter and the varied ways farmers have of arriving at these costs.

Dealers Also Losing

He pointed out that milk dealers were in the same boat as the farmers because they also were losing money today. He said that farmers should concentrate their efforts on getting the public to use more milk, butter, cheese and cream. Instead of this, he declared, the farmers are making every effort to increase their production, and then complain because they can't get higher prices for their milk. He also said that farmers failed to take into consideration the fact that milk production at some times of the year is higher than at others, despite the fact that there is no seasonal increase in consumption to correspond. He said they should remember this in planning a milk strike.

Singler started his address, which ended in the debate, by pointing out to the audience that the milk pool consisted of desperate and determined farmers who were resolved to fight to the last ditch to hold their homes and lands. He said the fight was not with the city residents or with the consumers of milk, but the middle man, the big dairy companies, who, he alleged, robbed the city residents by the high charges for dairy products, and then robbed the farmer by failing ing to give him a fair share of the selling price.

"We are selling our product below cost now and we have done so for a long time," Singler said. "The time has come when we are forced to take steps to protect ourselves. The milk strike we propose will not only affect Appleton, but the entire state and the entire nation. Farmers all over the country are planning to join."

Want $2 Per Hundred

"We will put a price tag on our product of $2 per 100 pounds of 3.5 per cent milk. This is not an unjust price but it is our first goal. If the dealers refuse to pay it we will refuse to deliver to the dealer. City residents then can purchase their milk direct from us, at distributing centers, at from 4 to 5 cents per quart. The farmers will thus receive more for their product and the city resident will be buying for less."

"And you needn't be afraid to purchase whole milk that isn't pasteurized. Thousands of youngsters in the country drink it every day and nothing could be more healthful. We want to emphasize the fact that our fight isn't with the city residents, but with the profiteering middleman dairy company that robs the farmer and the consumer."

Singler charged, despite Cherkasky's assertion that he was an independent dealer, that the Appleton Pure Milk company was or had been connected with one of the large dairy companies. He also charged that if Cherkasky was truly interested in the plight of the farmer, that he would be encouraging them in this effort rather than throwing blocks in their path.

He attacked the state department of agriculture and markets, declaring they had failed miserably in this crisis. He said they failed to act to save the farmer, despite the fact they had been shown the right way to go. Singler said there were over 80 cooperatives in the state, but that the purpose of the milk pool was to serve as an organization with which all the other cooperatives could affiliate to accomplish a common end.

Would Increase Wards

F. F. Wheeler, district attorney-elect, also addressed the club briefly on the necessity for greater city representation on the Outagamie-co board. He pointed out that at present the city has only six of the 41 supervisors, about 17.4 per cent whereas the city pays almost half of all the county taxes. Appleton has about half of the county's assessable property and about two-fifths of the county's population. He said the obvious unfairness of the system is reflected in these statistics.

He pointed out that the town of Osborn, with 537 inhabitants, had as much representation on the county board as the First ward of Appleton, which has about four times as many residents. He pointed to Bear Creek, with 411 population, and Black Creek, with 537, and then compared these populations with that of Appleton wards to show that Appleton was not being properly represented.

Wheeler pointed out that Green Bay has 21 wards and Oshkosh has 15 and that this large number of wards was created in these cities in an effort to have the municipalities better represented on the county board. He urged voters' clubs of Appleton to sponsor a movement to increase the number of wards in Appleton to 12 by making each voting precinct, as they stand at present, a ward.

The speaker suggested that instead of having aldermen from each ward, as at present, the city should have one alderman from each ward. This would prevent an increase in membership on the city council and would, at the same time, double the city's representation on the county board.

Wheeler said that the city, under the state law, faced the necessity of creating new voting precincts because in many of the present precincts more than 600 persons were voting. He said the law provides that new precincts must be created when the voting strength passes 600. The creation of the six new wards, he said, would thus solve two problems.

The club appointed a committee to investigate his proposals and report at the next meeting. A talk by H. H. Helble, principal of the senior high school, was postponed until the next meeting. The Appleton high school band, under direction of E. C. Moore, played a concert before the meeting.

"Nature in the Raw" is seldom MILD

THE WAR WHOOP

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the blood-curdling yells of war-mad savages, whose barbaric cruelty held America's early settlers in a constant state of terror. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Report Total Of $11,721 in Relief Drive

Only One of Nine Divisions Has Completed Work—Meet Again Wednesday

With a total of $11,721.18 reported, the Appleton Welfare and Relief Council's drive to raise a $25,000 relief fund in Appleton, swung into its second week this morning. Workers met at the Y. M. C. A. last night for the second report since the opening of the drive last Tuesday, and reported that almost half of the $25,000 had been pledged. The next meeting of the workers is set for 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. and Judge Fred V. Heinemann, president of the council and chairman of the drive group, said he expected the fund would be close to the goal after the third report.

Up to last night only one of the nine divisions had completed its report, and two divisions had not yet made any report. The division to complete its work is that of the schools, which reported a total of $3,871.83. This does not include the pledges from the Appleton Vocational school, which will bring the total above $4,000. Both Judge Heinemann and Gustave Keller, St. chairman of the council finance committee, were high in their praise of the efforts expended by the workers in the school and the fine reception given to the drive by the teachers.

Reports by divisions follow: executive committee on special cases, $1,314.75; manufacturers, $1,041.65; merchants, $1,272.25; schools, $3,871.83; county and city officials and employees, $677.70; personal solicitation, $649; finance committee on special cases, $2,394; Lawrence college committee, no report; hotels and soft drink parlors, no report. Judge Heinemann and Mr. Keller this morning urged all workers and divisions to be present at the next meeting Wednesday afternoon so that it would be possible to determine how much more effort and activity will be needed to bring the drive up to the required minimum. The council this morning accepted a pledge of $1,000 in free work from the Appleton Chiropractic society of five members. Each member will give $200 worth of free work and the patients to receive these services will be assigned by council workers.

The speaker will be Dr. Brewer Eddy and his subject will be "Will America Lose the Lead in World Recovery?" The meeting will open with a dinner at 6:15 and about 100 laymen and friends and clergy in the city are expected to attend.

It also was announced that "Gypsy" Smith, Jr., son of the evangelist, "Gypsy" Smith, will come to Appleton in the spring for a series of meetings. The Rev. George Bernard, California, author of "The Old Sugged Cross," recently visited the most popular hymn in America, also is coming to Appleton for a series of meetings under auspices of the Salvation Army. He will sing and speak at a union service at the Congregational church on Dec. 11, it was said.

Extortion Plot Aimed At Former Appleton Man

Milwaukee police are attempting to run down the writers of the threatening note received a number of days ago by Frank Weyenberg, Milwaukee shoe manufacturer, a former resident of Appleton. The note, purported to have been written by "Slim and Mike," asked $2,500 from Weyenberg, instructing him that he would be shot if he did not comply with the request.

Weyenberg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Weyenberg, 532 N. Appleton-st. He left Appleton many years ago but returns here frequently to visit his parents. He was to have spent last Sunday here on the fifty-fifth anniversary of his parents' marriage but was unable to do so.

The note received by Weyenberg follows:

"BEWARE
"Do as you are being instructed and no harm will come to you. Place $2,500 in $1 and $5 bills in a package. Take it to Jewmuller's place at Fifty-sixth st. and Fond du Lac road and tell him it will be called for by Slim or Mike."

"BEWARE
"Do not notify police because we will carry a bomb in this place when we call for the money and a machine gun will take care of them. If you fail to obey we will get you or blow up your home. You have until 8 o'clock Nov. 9, 1932. Notify us by the personal column in the Journal-Sunday, Nov. 5, 1932."

"SLIM AND MIKE."
Mr. Weyenberg notified the authorities and deputy sheriffs were placed on guard at the Weyenberg home. Nothing came of the threat and the note was not placed in the Journal as the note directed.

Lions Hear About Children's Home

And Aid Society

Field Representative Tells Of Work Done Under Children's Code

Workings of the Wisconsin Children's Home and Aid society, Milwaukee, a privately operated social welfare organization which cares for children and unmarried mothers, was discussed at the Lions club meeting Monday noon at Conway hotel by C. E. Port, Milwaukee, a field representative.

Discussing briefly the reorganization of the society to comply with the children's code and to be able to handle the cases which might be assigned it by district attorneys and judges handling cases under provisions of the code, Mr. Port stated work has been greatly increased in the last few years.

The increase was due, he said, to the fact that the courts now have jurisdiction over cases of unmarried mothers and their children and turn them over to the society. Formerly there was no record of cases the courts took no jurisdiction and many times no one ever knew what happened to children who were born illegitimately, and that "baby farms" thrived.

Must Report Early
Under present arrangements, hospitals and doctors report within 24 hours to the state board of control which assigns the case to the society. Investigation then is made and the case handled as investigation decides.

If a child is to be adopted the society makes all the necessary arrangements and investigations both to the advantage of the mother and the child and the parents to be. Other children are placed in boarding homes and under the supervision of the society, the speaker said. Mentioning that the society was financed from private subscription, Mr. Port said its budget had been cut by the failure of private agencies to continue their large subscription. He stated that many cases are handled from any county and because many unwed mothers go to larger cities, Milwaukee in particular, the facilities of the society to care for them there often save counties from which they come, and who are responsible for their care, much money.

County Milk Pool Unit Makes Plans To Strike Dec. 1

Names Committee to Handle Distribution of Milk In Appleton

Directors of the Outagamie-co unit of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool discussed plans for a milk strike starting Dec. 1 should the price of butterfat fail to advance 5 cents by that date, at a meeting at the courthouse Monday night. About 50 farmers were in attendance.

A committee was appointed to take charge of the distribution of milk direct to the city from the farms, in case the strike is called. Under terms of a resolution approved unanimously at a recent meeting of state delegates of the pool, here, the milk strike will start after Dec. 1 should the demands of the farmers fail to be fulfilled.

The committee named by the directors last night, according to W. M. Singler, state president, will have charge of establishing distributing centers in the city securing permission to sell the milk, make plans to see that pure milk is delivered, and make plans for inspecting farms that are to sell the milk in the city. Members of the committee are: George Beckley, Jr., H. H. Benton, Mr. Singler, E. O. Mueller and Edward Ziegler.

Directors last night were firm in their stand to strike should the price of butterfat fail to advance. Mr. Singler said the price of butter already had advanced at Chicago, but that the cheese market and other dealers here were refusing to acknowledge the advance.

Singler today admitted that he wasn't certain how many farmers would join the strike, if it is called, but he said he was sure it would be statewide and so many would join that the effects would certainly be felt. He said that while the strike may be averted by rising prices, all plans were going ahead by local milk pool units to strike in case they do not.

Mr. Singler last night told the directors about the meeting of the National Farmers' union at Omaha, Neb., which has attended the support of this organization in the strike movement. He also told of a mass meeting at Marshfield Saturday when directors of the state unit of the Farmer's Holiday association would meet to discuss the strike. Mr. Singler will attend this meeting.

Observe Sunday Hours At Y. M. C. A. Thursday

Regular Sunday hours will be observed at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, it has been announced by George F. Werner, general secretary of the association. Only the lobby and office of the building will be open.

he is going from Washington. He made no reference to the conference he will have with President Hoover this afternoon about war debts and other international affairs.

Greeted by Crowds
He paused for a moment on the top step to wave at the crowd that had assembled in the street and then climbed into his automobile for the drive to the ferry.

Another crowd had gathered at the station in Jersey City and a cheer went up as the automobile of the president-elect moved off the ferry into the station. In the scramble several members of the governor's party were locked out of the station and had difficulty effecting entrance.

As the trains moved out of Jersey City word came that arrangements had been made for Speaker Garner, the vice president-elect, to board the train at Baltimore and accompany Mr. Roosevelt to Washington.

As the train crossed New Jersey, the president-elect conversed with Howe, Professor Raymond Moley and Charles Michaelson. Moley has served as an advisor to Mr. Roosevelt throughout the campaign and Michaelson has been publicity director for the Democratic national committee for the last several years.

Mr. Roosevelt after chatting with them, turned finally to reading a current magazine and prepared to have luncheon shortly after leaving Philadelphia.

A four minute stop was made at Philadelphia. The president-elect remained in seclusion. To one visitor he said he was having a fine

Sentence Three Men as Members Of Burglary Gang

Judge Considers Parole for Two—Third Must Serve His Term

Three members of a gang that confessed to a series of burglaries and thefts in Shawano and Outagamie-cos were sentenced by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when they pleaded guilty of larceny. They are: Joseph Schiltz, Kimberly, one to three years in state prison at Waupun; Anton Desheimer, Wrightstown, one to three years in the state reformatory at Green Bay; and Sylvester Smejkel, Sherwood, one to three years in state prison at Waupun. Edward Wisnesky, fourth member of the gang, is serving a term of from one to three years in state prison at Waupun for violation of parole.

Judge Berg announced, after sentencing the men, that Schiltz would have to serve his time, but that he was considering a parole for Desheimer and Smejkel. Schiltz, with Wisnesky, had previously been convicted of taking a car without the owner's consent and of concealing stolen property. Wisnesky violated his parole and was sentenced before the arrest of Schiltz and the other two.

The quartet confessed to robberies and thefts at Shawano, New London, Kimberly and Appleton. Only a small part of the loot was recovered.

Edison School Threatened by Fire; Loss $400

Hook and Ladder Truck Damaged During Another Run This Morning

Loss estimated at $400 resulted from a fire in the basement of Edison school in the first ward last night. Fire Chief George P. McGillan said this morning that the fire started in a wooden locker and that it probably was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Two pumps and the hook and ladder truck responded to the call. Flames rapidly spread from the basement, up the stairs to the second floor, but firemen succeeded in stopping the fire before more serious damage resulted. The stairway was damaged, but it was possible to resume classes this morning. The last of the fire fighting equipment returned to the barns a half an hour after the alarm was received.

The department's hook and ladder truck was put out of commission for several days when the crane shaft broke as it was responding to an alarm from the Ebert and Clark filling station, corner of Wisconsin and Badger-ave, about 8:45 this morning. The fire there started when an oil tank ignited after becoming overheated. No serious damage resulted. Chief McGillan immediately wired for parts to repair the truck, which had to be towed back to the barns, but he said it would be several days before the machine would be in readiness for use.

F. C. Uetzmann in charge. Burial was in the Lutheran cemetery at Kaukauna.

Baum who was born in Germany, came to the United States in 1872, settling in Milwaukee. In 1881 he moved to a farm at Wrightstown and came to Kaukauna about two years ago. He was a member of St. John Church, Wrightstown, for 50 years.

Survivors are two sons, George and Henry of Fond du Lac; nine daughters, Mrs. Gus Grimmer, Kaukauna, Mrs. William Schaffer, Mrs. Schirich, Mrs. Willard Farrington, all of Milwaukee, Mrs. John Wagner, Appleton, Miss Betty Baum, Milwaukee, Mrs. Philip Brose, Wrightstown, Mrs. Clark Phillips, Kaukauna, Mrs. Leo Rabideau, Kaukauna, 29 grand children, and nine great grand children.

MRS. WENZEL GOERL
Mrs. Wenzel Goerl, 67, 121 S. State-st., a resident of Appleton for the past 38 years, died at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning after a day's illness. She was a member of the Third Order of St. Francis of St. Joseph church, and of the American Legion Auxiliary. Survivors are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. George Robinson, Los Angeles, Calif.; one son, Peter, Appleton; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Nussbaum, Menominee, and Mrs. Joseph Schreiter, Appleton. The funeral will be held at 9:30 Friday morning from the Schommer funeral home, with services at 10 o'clock at St. Joseph church. Burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. Prayer services will be held at the funeral home Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

MRS. CAROLINE NICHOLSON

Battle Decay In Government, Graass Pleads

American Citizenship Must Exercise Franchise of Ballot, He Says

A plea to American citizenship to exercise its franchise of the ballot box in fighting inward decay which has led to destruction of governments and nations, was made by Judge Henry Graass, Green Bay, at the meeting of Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Conway Hotel Monday evening. A dinner and entertainment by students of the Chamberlin Dancing academy preceded the talk.

The speaker assailed radicalism in its various forms, including Communism and atheism, and declared that if the United States is to endure, citizens must fight to keep the constitution intact, although one-third of the country's form of government has already been changed in the past 25 years.

"This country needs honest Statesmen, not politicians," Judge Graass said. "We need to send statesmen to Washington, D. C., who will destroy the great system of wire pulling and graft-men who have their country, and not the eternal battle for votes and jobs, at heart."

Need Honest Men
"This country needs honest lawyers, men who have pride in their profession and aren't practicing to find loop holes in the law—loop holes which permit the millionaire gangster to escape the clutches of the law, but send poor, starving men to prison for stealing a loaf of bread."

"We need honest doctors—physicians and surgeons who are interested in the betterment of citizen's physical well being, instead of the slightest fee. Too many doctors are interested only in building fortunes, and sit in their offices rubbing their hands as epidemics occur."

"The country needs honest prophets, not parrots. Too many preachers and priests are more interested in playing their sermons for the special entertainment of monied parishioners."

"America wants honest judges, men who will uphold the pride and dignity of their office, and who hold it sacred. We need judges who have courage and who are not susceptible to bribes and filthy lucre."

Many Lose Faith
Analyzing the political history of America, the speaker pointed out that there are hundreds of people who no longer pin faith in the constitution, but are striving to see its overthrow. He said these radical demagogues thrive on dissension, and would like nothing more than a revolution.

He warned against dictatorships, and against radicals who are attempting to pit class against class. This group opposes liberty, and the laws that keep liberty, that greatest heritage of American citizenship, he said.

Hits Radicalism

Judge Henry Graass, Green Bay, addressing the Junior Chamber of Commerce here last night, denounced radicalism, declaring that one of the greatest needs of this country is honest statesmen, not politicians.

"In America there should be no reason for classes and this country was never intended to be a democracy," he said. "We have a Republican form of government, that form which has stood the test of time in this country—but which also has fallen in other countries."

"Too much democracy can send a country to rot and ruin as fast as a monarchy or aristocracy. Other countries today are having political revolutions, especially in Germany. If the Nazi chief, Adolf Hitler, gains control, it will be the first step in Germany's return to a monarchy."

Real Wars Endless
The speaker said the real wars for freedom and liberty are endless. He said the greatest wars yet to come will be fought with ballots and not with machine guns. American citizenship can never lay down arms—eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty, he said.

American citizenship needs to hold fast to God and the constitution, and citizens must be educated and warned against the breakdown of government. Judge Graass said if George Washington, Alexander Hamilton or other fathers of the constitution were to return, they wouldn't recognize the document.

He said the nation's capital is filled with grafters and crafty politicians who sell themselves and

New Record for Creamery Butter

176,000,000 Pounds Manufactured in State Last Year

Madison (AP)—Wisconsin manufactured 176,000,000 pounds of creamery butter in 1931, the largest output in the state's history, Walter Ebling, statistician for the U. S. and Wisconsin departments of agriculture, announced today.

The output last year represented an increase of four per cent or 6,500,000 pounds as compared with the previous year. Decreased activity in the manufacture of cheese and condenser products, along with a decline in the demand of the city market and an increase in their country for personal gain and glory. American citizens must go to the polls and wipe out the grafters—the government must be returned to the people, he declared. Discussing the advantages of being an American citizen, the speaker said "Birth does not determine our destiny." Every young American man has the right to aspire to become president of these United States, he said.

total milk production resulted in a greater diversion of milk to butter manufacture.

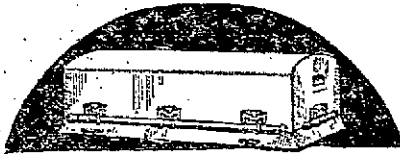

Wisconsin produces about 11 per cent of the creamery butter of the United States, Ebling said. Iowa and Minnesota alone exceed the Wisconsin output and these three states produce about 41 per cent of the nation's factory butter.

Almost 44 per cent of the milk produced on Wisconsin farms which went into the manufacture of dairy products last year was used in butter manufacture. This is somewhat more than usual. There was also an increase in the total creamery butter output of the country as a whole, amounting to about four and one-half per cent in 1931, as compared with bringing the total production to 1,667,452,000, largest in history.

Forty years ago the state produced more farm butter than factory butter but standardization of the factory product and improved methods brought about an increase in factory butter. A recession occurred after 1915 but by 1925 manufacture had reached 169,000,000 pounds. Production sagged in 1929, but since then there have been successive increases.

A HOTTER FIRE THAT lasts LONGER

FOLKS think I am a tough, rough old customer... and I can be mighty cold and bitter when I want to be. But there's one fellow that licks me every time... he's the hottest thing I ever knew. His name is Winterking Coal and he sure has made a lot of friends up here in Wisconsin.

When it comes to real heat there isn't anything that can touch him. He burns cleanly... with very little ashes and lasts much longer than any other coal I ever battled with.

I understand one of the reasons folks around here like him is the fact that you don't need any special instructions... put him in your furnace and you get perfect results.

THE CASE OF MR. ROBINS

Raymond Robins, politically prominent for upwards of thirty years, a friend and confidant of more than one president, faithful ally of the extreme side of the dry cause and supporter of Mr. Hoover in the last campaign, presents the latest example of a rare and bewildering affliction called amnesia and having to do with the tricks of memory.

Most laymen have noticed before that this derangement usually accompanies a burden or stress heavier than the faculties of the person involved can bear. It came into particular prominence during the World war because it affected soldiers who had been through harrowing experiences. And yet oftentimes it seems to result where the load or discouragement faced is more imaginary than real which probably goes to show that it is real to the person who imagines it.

Mr. Robins was intensely engaged in the campaign. He could hardly fail to note that his choice for the presidency was fighting a losing battle and that his favorite issue of prohibition had become extremely unpopular. The burden of this situation became too heavy for him, induced in large part by his error of judgment in feeling that impending defeat contained wounds and losses that he could not tolerate.

Perhaps even science cannot say exactly what has happened to this man. Probably it looks upon some amnesia victims as hysterics precipitately flying from terrors they alone envision.

Mr. Robins preserved all outward appearances of normality. He merely shook his identity which in turn permitted him to shake part of his burden.

Probably the break was gradual. He may even have felt it coming. It seems that he was careful to provide himself with sufficient funds and this through the safety and convenience of the postal system. He even assumed a name, Rogers, much like his own. He cut from newspapers a great number of clippings concerning his case and carefully preserved them. Whenever a radio, so often used to flash descriptions of missing persons, was turned on, he left the room. He worked diligently in a strong Democratic community for Mr. Hoover and the prohibition cause. All these items tend to show a conscious and therefore somewhat premeditated, change of identity, either to avoid the work and cares of the losing battle or to retreat from some other condition in his normal life, as yet undisclosed, that became unbearable to him.

On the other hand, he exposed himself so openly by taking the public rostrum at gatherings of people as to invite the very observation that he would avoid were his conduct wholly premeditated. Among a humble people, and posing himself as a hard working prospector, he spoke publicly of his intimate acquaintance with President Theodore Roosevelt, President Hoover, and his extensive world travels, and also used money freely and generously. These are all indications that he was not consciously trying to conceal his identity.

Disorders of the amnesia line are not clearly understood because the brain mechanism is complex and is itself not clearly understood.

For instance, science tells us that a certain part of the brain stores up sound impressions and that an injury there may be reflected in the inability of a person to understand what is being said to him although he hears plainly. He simply has lost his mother tongue and that language is as foreign to him as Sanskrit. An injury in another location may take from him the ability to write, all memory of the written word, although he may use and understand languages as before. In still another phase the patient is unable to use the words he wishes. He may be able to talk plainly, know precisely in his mind what he wishes to state but is unable to express it, presumably because of a defect in the fibre paths for motor speech. And there are still other cases presenting some characteristics, but not all of the ones described.

In most of the so-called cases of amnesia forgetfulness extends not only to the business upon which one may be bent but to the members of his family, his home, and those inarticulate things to which he has been most accustomed, as though, in saving him from conditions he did not like and therefore wished fervently to avoid, nature has kindly removed everything that might accompany or be associated with his former unhappy state.

Indeed, in some respects, the more science tears down veils of secrecy and seeks to give understanding to many of the phenomena of life the more intricate and nonunderstandable it all becomes. Thomas Hobbs who wrote a few centuries ago thought man was not a complicated machine but rather easy to understand. He declared:

"For what is the heart but a spring; and the nerves but so many strings; and the joints but so many wheels, giving motion to the whole body, such as was intended by the Artificer."

But the problem, the puzzle, isn't as easy as all that.

COURTHOUSE TRUST FUND

In spite of the fact that every means for reducing the tax levy during these times should be adopted by the county board, it is fortunate that the trust fund established for building a new courthouse cannot be raided. The district attorney's ruling that the fund is sacred for the purposes for which it is raised should protect it.

No one at all acquainted with the present courthouse can question the necessity for either a new building or extensive improvement or enlargement of the present structure. The need was thoroughly debated when the trust fund was established and nothing has happened since to alter the situation. If it was wise to raise the money, it is even wiser to leave the fund untouched.

If this fund could be diverted to uses other than for which it was levied, then no trust fund has any protection and all sorts of abuses can creep into administration of government. The money must be reserved for a new courthouse until one is built or it can be established that the need for a new building no longer exists.

INSULTING THE SECRETARY OF WAR

All loyal citizens should condemn the method adopted by those who walked out of the audience as Secretary of War Patrick Hurley arose to make his address dedicating the new tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington on Armistice day.

It was an insult deliberately planned and executed in an attempt to give public display of their resentment at the federal government's procedure against the bonus marchers in Washington last summer.

Such actions do not bespeak sound conceptions of loyalty toward constituted authority nor, it is reasonable to assume, do they represent the attitude of any considerable number of the men who might be benefited by the immediate payment of the bonus. Neither was the occasion a proper one on which to give vent to their displeasure. Such tactics brand these so-called citizens as the radical trouble makers they are, a class being given altogether too much latitude in this country today.

Secretary Hurley is himself a war veteran with a splendid record, a winner of the Distinguished Service cross. In conducting the memorial service at Arlington on Armistice day he represented not only the federal government but every loyal and patriotic American. There can be no sympathy or support for this latest demonstration of resentment against a man whom these radicals have chosen as the target for their insults. Rather will the rest of the nation steel itself to resist to the last ditch the efforts of men who use tactics of the rowdy type.

THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY

Josephus Daniels disapproves of the donkey as the symbol of the Democratic party. He suggests the "readoption of the rooster, and letting the donkey go into disrepute." Furthermore, Mr. Daniels alleges the crowing cock to have "ten times more style and beauty and clarion call than the donkey."

Cartoonists will be loath to agree with Mr. Daniels. Pitting a donkey against an elephant is a problem not entirely beyond human understanding but how can a rooster be matched with that ponderous Republican beast, even on the drawing board? There are limits beyond which the imagination cannot be stretched.

Clifford K. Berryman, Washington Evening Star cartoonist, informs us that the Republican elephant, the Democratic donkey and the Tammany tiger were all the creation of the inimitable Tom Nast at a time (1872) when the Republican party was so powerful that the elephant seemed an eminently fitting symbol of its strength. The Democratic party was then often referred to as the "finance party," hence Nast's easy translation into "fine ass" and now historic donkey.

Mr. Nast with all his creative art and political insight could not foresee what that donkey would eventually grow into. Could he have done so in the light of what has happened in the year 1932, he doubtless would have thought less of the bray and more of the kick, and made his symbol a Missouri mule.

LOOKING over the papers from a year ago see where Governor Roosevelt was to make a speech at Warm Springs, Jawuh, that Representative Jack Garner was being interviewed about the possibilities of becoming speaker of the house . . . that Lawrence Tibbett had sung at the chapel . . . that we had seen a snowflake . . . that the dollar-a-year men during the war were wishing they could get their jobs back . . . that Jimmy Walker—then a mayor—was going west to plead for Tom Mooney . . . some of that seems ages ago . . . some of it just the day before yesterday . . .

The football season is pretty well drawing to a close. There are still some important games, of course, the Colgate-Brown affair on Turkey Day, the Notre Dame-Army and Notre Dame-U. S. C. games and the Rose Bowl and New Years Day games out on the west coast, but the bulk of the gridiron business is finished.

In that connection it will be well to offer congratulations to Harry Kipke and his Michigan team for winning the conference title. Not that Michigan looked good in winning—the team was just good enough to get by on several occasions and a Michigan team is seldom interesting to watch—but she won. Which seems to be what counts.

And the snappiest of the conference teams seems to be Purdue—with a nifty organization and a swell attack. Many folks feel Purdue is better than Michigan. But Michigan won!

Which Is About All of This for a While.

Purdue and Michigan were supposed to be good—way back last summer. It's no surprise to see them so well up in front. Down at Madison, folks, is the surprise of the year. At Madison—where, if you believe what you hear, politics, social life and indifference preclude good football—was developed the most dangerous team in these here now parts.

The boys at Wisconsin were taught that touchdowns win football games. They learned how to manufacture touchdowns. They made them. Surely, a sharp contrast to the past years when—in at least one season—the team went without scoring for four weeks.

Poor material—at least that was the story, a light team (one of the lightest), a short spring practice, a new coach in unfamiliar and discouraging surroundings, a tough schedule.

And your state university, folks, led all the rest in the manufacture of points this year!

So Frederick March was awarded the highest honors of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences for his work. Another Wisconsin boy makes good. Don Ameche, another son of Wisconsin is getting places on the radio.

HERITAGE

He flung a curse upon his son.
For some grave folly he had done.
He cried aloud: "He's fully grown!
The end of this must have known!
The price of this he must have seen!"
And yet his own hands were unclean.
Upon his breath was heavy still
The flavor which had wrought the ill.

He blamed the boy for being weak
Who had himself a craven streak.
On lower levels than he talked,
He preached high conduct, but he walked.
And thought it disappointment grim
To find the boy had followed him.
He seemed surprised at last to see
How much like him his boy could be.

Fathers who want fine sons must seek
Themselves the higher mountain peak.
And by example day by day
To what is finer lead the way.
There is the burden to be strong,
Wisely to choose twixt right and wrong.
For as the twigs are like the tree,
So like their fathers sons must be.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907

The marriage of Miss Alma M. Soike, Fond du Lac, and Lothar Graef, Appleton, was to take place at noon the following Thursday, Thanksgiving day, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Soike, 480 Forest-ave, Fond du Lac.

A marriage license had been issued to Frances Dupuis, Appleton, and Victor Hobart, Minneapolis.

Mrs. Theodore Arndt and daughter had returned from Memphis, Tenn., where they moved several months before.

H. C. Gutschow and party returned the previous evening from a two weeks' deer hunting expedition at Long Lake.

Mrs. N. H. Brokaw was in Wausau to remain over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Mrs. Paul Hackbert and son, Harland, left that morning for Fort Atkinson where they were to spend a week at the home of the former's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hansen spent a few days the previous week with Mr. Hansen's parents at North Cape.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

A BAD CASE OF DUPLICITY

This is just terrible. What IS the world coming to? The lady confesses at the outset she is 44 years old, that she has always worked hard in her shop taking care of her business, also running her home on the side or by way of recreation or diversion. Then a few years ago she had her—

Operation. But we're not going to tell her that at all. If anybody is going to tell about his operation in this column it must be the conductor himself. Now when I had my operation (excuse it, please)—

Shortly afterward the poor girl went back to the shop, and by and by she had what her doctor good naturedly termed a nervous breakdown.

How kind most good doctors are about that! It is such a satisfactory alibi and so effectively disposes of the curiosity of make-believe friends.

And change of life. Oh-oh, that wasn't so kind. But never mind. It didn't fool anybody, for the correspondent remarks that she has not had any change of life. If she takes my advice she'll never have any such thing. I don't mean that I am such a wonderful doctor or health expert, but just that there is no such thing; in other words that explanation for any ill health or what have you is pure humbug.

Now comes the dreadful confession. Some one came along to this juncture and told the poor girl cigarettes would quiet her nerves, and she commenced smoking surreptitiously, and now she is absolutely a slave to the habit. How many she burns per diem she does not say, but it is just ruining her morale, for every time the craving for a smoke comes on she has to run over to her home and hide in a closet or somewhere while she puffs at her tag.

She is constantly anxious lest her friends notice the odor about her, or, worse yet, lest her sons discover she smokes.

Now it seems the neighbors and the girls she comes in contact with in the course of business, have the most outspoken convictions about females who smoke, and altogether it is simply a miserable, wretched life of duplicity and all that sort of thing.

My advice to her is to explain to her friends that her doctor advised her to indulge in smoking as a less harmful thing than resorting to medicinal sedatives or stimulants. This will be no lie, for I'm her doctor, for the moment. Unless the poor girl's sons are queer ones altogether, I'm willing to bet they'll find none the less of little use to her if she enjoys an occasional gasper right in her own living room.

There is really no good reason why an adult female should not smoke as freely as an adult male does. A gentleman who wishes to smoke smokes temperately and never in fits, annoyance, on others who may not like it. A lady may enjoy the same privilege.

However, I sent this poor girl the best instructions I can give to help victims of the tobacco habit break the grip of the habit, and I'm glad to send such advice to anybody who tells me he or she is addicted to this habit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Missing: A Boy's Uvula

Son's tonsils removed two months ago. Comparing his throat with the throats of other children who have had their tonsils removed I find his palate completely gone. Would this do him any harm later in life? (R. J. C.)

Answer—I fancy the boy's palate is still there, but his uvula is missing. The uvula is the tongue-like projection at the tip of the soft palate. Its absence will never harm the boy. We often snip the uvula off when it seems in the way.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — What would you want to do if you were a millionaire for a day in New York?

A movie company raises the question. Yes, in a publicity contest. The winner is offered a day in the big city with an entertainment schedule based on "a curious insight as to the popular conception of a millionaire's daily routine."

Paradoxically, the less one knows about New York, the easier it might be for him to make up his mind on how he would want to spend such a day here. The uninformed one, from a distance, can count the lures of the city on the fingers of his hands and decide he'd prefer to do this, see that.

The more one knows of the city's infinite variety, the more of a problem for him to choose his fun under such conditions. I'm sure that if some gent came along and dropped a bottomless purse in my lap, and told me I had the day off to go and do as I pleased, I would spend half of my day of days, just sitting around, trying to make up my mind.

Let's examine the movie company's schedule and see how it might suit us to follow it, since we're up in the air on a program of our own.

The day is started by "a breakfast in bed in a luxurious three-room suite of a popular hotel." So far so good. But, by the way, what time is breakfast? Don't you agree with me it's not a millionaire's day if we have to get up too early—even on a crowded day of days?

After being attended by a barber, manicurist and masseur, we are helped to dress "by the English valet or the French maid."

Next comes a ride in an extravagant motor car to a Westchester country club, then a short cruise on a private yacht, and "the temporary millionaire will motor to city hall to meet the mayor."

New we certainly hold nothing personal against Mayor McKee, but don't you think we could be just as happy without going to city hall? Surely the mayor's feelings wouldn't be hurt.

Anyway, there follows a shopping tour along Fifth avenue and lunch at a Park avenue hostelry. Lunch at last! We were beginning to get mighty hungry. And, by the way, what time is it already?

The afternoon is filled with a matinee, climbing the Empire State tower, visiting back-stage folk and dressing for dinner "with the expert assistance of valet or maid."

Then there's a jaunt through Central park "in a coach and four" (four what? Surely there are not four horses left), dinner, the theater again, a visit to a radio broadcasting station, an after-theater supper in Central park, a round of

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — "Perhaps" nothing was more interesting to observe in the hectic presidential campaign how history than the development of President Hoover as a campaigner.

It was no secret to those in the capital, who knew and were closely associated with him, that at the start of those last five weeks of active campaigning the President was shy to crowds.

Waving a greeting at railroad stations on the approach to enthusiastic well-wishers didn't seem to come natural with him. And when he addressed such crowds it was in a conversational tone, often not heard farther than a few feet from the train platform.

That was on his first campaign trip—to Des Moines.

A Change
The succeeding weeks, however, were to see a remarkable change. Gradually he learned how to smile happily at the crowds, to laugh with them, to shake their hands cordially, to reply to their sallies.

The last trip of the campaign which took him to the Pacific coast is a good example of how he developed on the stump. At a little place in Illinois, called Gresham Junction, some man in the crowd yelled at him:

"How's things going, Herbie?"

The President grinned broadly and replied:

"They are going fine."

Someone else called him the "Fighting Quaker" and was rewarded with another presidential smile.

Those who were with the President throughout the campaign say that while he never got completely over his shyness, he did to such an extent that it no longer suggested indifference or coldness.

He Enjoyed It

These observers also say that Mr. Hoover really came to enjoy it all. It pleased him to see so many people turn out to see and hear him.

As a result, each succeeding platform appearance saw him enter in to the spirit of the occasion with increased zest and enthusiasm. Day by day he seemed to become less the novice at the game and more the seasoned campaigner.

He wound up in Palo Alto in that fashion—still full of fight, and showing little of the terrific mental and physical strain to which he had been subjected.

Reduced Salaries

Editor Post-Crescent—I have been a taxpayer in Outagamie co for 50 years. The way the farmers are taxed is ridiculous. The farmer's income is only a fractional part of what it was in former times. Then why not reduce other expenses accordingly. One hundred dollars a month, should be enough for school supervisors. They can't expect to coin money as they did when times were prosperous. They did receive a salary, but so little it's not worth mentioning. If the present supervisors think they can't work for that, there are plenty who would be glad to do it.

Also the county agent, nurse and demonstrator. Their salary should be reduced to $100 and no expenses paid. Don't throw up your hands and say how can they exist. How does the farmer exist? He has machinery to buy, labor expenses, insurance, and perhaps a big mortgage. He doesn't get $100 a month. Those county officers haven't the expense of the farmer.

I believe in modern advancement, but don't rob Peter to pay Paul, and it looks to me as if the Pauls need a reduction. Let the taxpayer vote on this subject, and not let the county board decide this question.

A Taxpayer.

night clubs in the Village and Harlem—and "at 3 a. m. to bed."

Prize For Prize Givers

For my part, I've decided I don't want to try such a day. But I will do this. To add to the impressiveness of the contest, I offer to turn over to the movie company one share of stock in another movie company (provided it is not above 62 cents on the exchange) if the visiting "millionaire" is steered through that schedule by 3 a. m.

Sympathy for the ousted Republicans might be saved until it is learned whether they really were unlucky in that election or not.

Last year $1,000 was appropriated for the examination of schoolchildren, but it was felt that under present conditions this item could be dispensed with for the coming year.

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN
We quote from her voluntary letter:
"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Chinese Newspapers

Assail Japan's Stand

Shanghai (AP)—Vernacular newspapers in Shanghai and Nanking today unanimously condemned the Japanese observations on the Lytton Manchurian report, declaring them inaccurate.

The Central Daily News at Nanking, the Kuomintang organ, brands the observations as "a masterpiece of slanderous calumnies against China, which the facts belie," while the local China Times says they are "a further deliberate attack on China."

It was reiterated that Manchuria has been a part of China "since ministers. Formerly the money went to the county chapter of the Red Cross.

The service will begin at 9 o'clock at Memorial Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Ernest Hasselblad will lead the responsive reading. Dr. H. E. Peabody of the Congregational church will be the principal speaker. Other clergymen in the city will take part in the service.

Auxiliary Gives $100 To Charity

THE sum of $100 was donated to the city relief drive by American Legion Auxiliary at its meeting Monday night at Odd Fellow hall. The unit also voted to send $50 to Legion headquarters for Christmas cheer for soldiers in hospitals.

Mrs. H. W. Miller reported that 263 tickets had been sold for the Armistice day dinner, and announced that $72.59 had been realized from the event. Short talks were given by H. H. Helbie and Arthur Bunks, post commander and commander of Quoy Johnston post.

The unit decided to send letters of thanks to merchants who had donated articles for the Armistice banquet. The membership committee reported 398 members at present. An effort is being made to raise that number to 443 before Jan. 1, to go "over the top" in the drive.

The regular charge for the lunch after meetings was abolished, and a system of voluntary donations was inaugurated. Volunteers were called for to visit members who have been sick for some time. Community singing took place and Mrs. J. H. Tippet led a memorial service in honor of four deceased members who died during the past year, namely, Mrs. H. C. Saecker, Mrs. Gustave Keller, St. Mrs. Henry Nabbeheldt, and Mrs. E. A. Peterson.

Plans were made for a Christmas party on Dec. 19, when the children of members will present a program. The January meeting will be a get-acquainted meeting.

A social hour followed the meeting, prizes being won at bridge by Mrs. Louis Lohman, at schafkopf by Mrs. Rose McCann, at five hundred rummy by Mrs. Rudolph Striehard, and at dice by Mrs. Alvin Villwock. Eighty-six members were present. Mrs. A. B. Fisher, the new president, presided at the meeting.

It was added that "it is time for the league of nations to take decisive action to terminate Japan's plundering of China."

Teamwork is Essential To Happiness in Home

BY DOROTHY DIX

The place where teamwork is more needed than anywhere else in the world is in the home, and yet there is where it is seldomest found. Rare, indeed, is the family in which the husband and wife have found the same ideas and ideals and agree upon a settled plan of action and bend their united energies and intelligence to carry it out. And especially rare—oh, rare as hen's teeth or Kohinoor diamonds—are the father and mother who agree upon a theory of child-rearing.

As a general thing they take opposite sides on the question. If the mother is lenient, the father is stern. If the father believes in discipline, the mother thinks it is cruel to make poor little children behave themselves. If mother tries to bring up her children by the Baby Book, father pooh-poohs it and feeds the youngsters on lollipops and lets them stay up as long as they like at night.

DOROTHY DIX If mother thinks that Mamie should have dates and go to parties, father puts his foot down and forbids it and raises ructions every time a boy comes to the house. If mother thinks the boys should have sport cars and go to college and take up some temperamental career instead of getting a job and going to work in father's shop, father tells them how he started work at 14 and never had a pair of trousers that didn't have a patch on them.

Worse still, the parents stake their fights over their different theories of child-rearing in Johnnie's and Mamie's presence and it is not long before the clever youngsters discover that they can play off Papa against Mamma and escape any authority at all. For how is mother to form habits of neatness and order and drill them in good manners when father always interferes every time she corrects one of them and says: "Oh, don't worry the poor child with that foolishness. He'll know how to behave when he is grown."

And how can father teach his children obedience and respect for law and order when mother calls him a tyrant and makes a scene whenever he attempts to control them?

Each nullifies all that the other tries to do. Each undoes the work of the other. Each destroys the authority of the other and the result is that the house divided against itself falls.

How often we see fathers frustrated in their efforts to make strong, worth-while men of their sons by the boys' mothers who pamper and spoil them and make workdays out of them, who slip them the money they father refused them for their dissipations and who make loafers out of them by insisting that Arthur is too delicate to work and Adolphus is too artistic for the grocery business and that their father is cruel to insist upon their settling down to regular labor like ordinary lads.

And how many men we see helpless to protect their daughters from the fate they are bringing upon themselves because their mothers connive with the girls in deceiving their fathers about the boys they go out with and the places they go to and how late they stay out at night.

And how many mothers do we see laboring in vain to make ladies and gentlemen of their children and ground them in the decencies of conduct because their fathers tacitly encourage hoodlumism in the youngsters and have some strange optimistic belief that young devils turn into pin-feathered angels when they are grown. A faith which, alas, is given the lie by all the myriads of selfish, self-centered, undisciplined wild girls and boys who are bringing their parents' gray hair in sorrow to the tiny grave.

For is this lack of teamwork in rearing their children the only mistake that parents make. Only too often each criticizes and ridicules the other to the children. It is a common thing to hear a man call his wife a fool in his children's hearing and to deride her opinions and tell her she doesn't know what she is talking about. Or to accuse her of being silly and sentimental and having no judgment or of being behind the times and ignorant or extravagant or frivolous. Sometimes, even if he is jealous, of being flirtatious.

And it is equally common to hear a woman reproach her husband with being cruel when he tries to correct the children or of his having forgotten his own youth and of wanting to deny the children every pleasure. Sometimes she even goes so far as to accuse him of not loving his youngsters. Nor does she scruple from criticizing him to his children and letting them see that she thinks he is a failure because he doesn't make more money.

Now what these fathers and mothers overlook in doing this, is that every child takes its own opinion of its father and mother from the other, and when one sees that its father regards its mother as a poor, silly, brainless creature whose opinions are of no value, why he rates her that way too. And when the child observes that its mother has neither respect, nor admiration for its father it adopts the same attitude toward him.

Then, when the time comes when it is all important that the children should listen to their fathers' advice and be guided by their mothers, they find that they have no authority with them. Each has killed the other's influence.

In these times it is difficult enough to rear children so that they will be an honor and not a grief to their parents. This can only be accomplished by a father and a mother working shoulder to shoulder and by presenting a united front to the rebellious youngsters. So they should discuss their differences in private and exalt each other before the children.

It takes teamwork to manage a modern baby. No father or mother alone is equal to the task.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

THE ride back to town was a nightmare to Sue. She sat close to Sally, trying to be comforting, frightened of the strange abandon in the other's manner. Sally interrupted a frightening long pause.

"Joe, do you remember what happened one year ago tonight? It was the Nortons' Christmas ball. Christmas is coming soon, you know. Peace on earth and all the rest of it." She laughed again, mockingly. "And I had a gold lace dress and slim gold slippers, and the world was so gay." She caught her breath. "And now.... and now...."

The reserve gave way. Broke like a bubble. "Oh, Sue, Sue, how did it happen?"

"It's out, Sally, you'll be all right. It wasn't your fault," Sue comforted. "You won't go to prison."

Sue was glad that Dr. Raynor slipped a comforting arm around Sally. She was relieved when Sally relaxed against him and sobbed wearily. Sue and Dr. Raynor had placed the girl between them in the back seat of the car. One officer was occupying a small seat, directly in front of Dr. Raynor, and the other drove the car which contained Hal Prichard's body.

"I'll go to jail," Sally murmured after a while, as the sobs lessened.

"No you won't," Joe Raynor comforted. "You were under the man's spell."

"Will I go to jail?" Sally asked, leaning forward.

The officer didn't answer. "Well, maybe...." He hesitated.

"That's all I wanted to know," Sally said. "I'll take the rap like a sport. Isn't that the term for it? Only—will it be long?"

"The judge may let you off with a suspended sentence," the officer went on. "You'll have to prove the guy got you, though."

The rest of the ride was quiet. Sometimes Sally sobbed. No one spoke of anything more important than the heavy drift of the snow.

The car which contained the body of the dead man followed closely.

"Will Hal be buried in a potter's field?" Sally asked, as the procession reached the city.

"Where is his wife?" the officer asked.

"She doesn't care about him," he said. "He wouldn't have taken up with her—he wouldn't have been such a down and out rotter. Of course he forgot to get that first marriage annulled. But even at that—Oh, what's the matter with me? Why do I want to defend him? He was no good—no good at all."

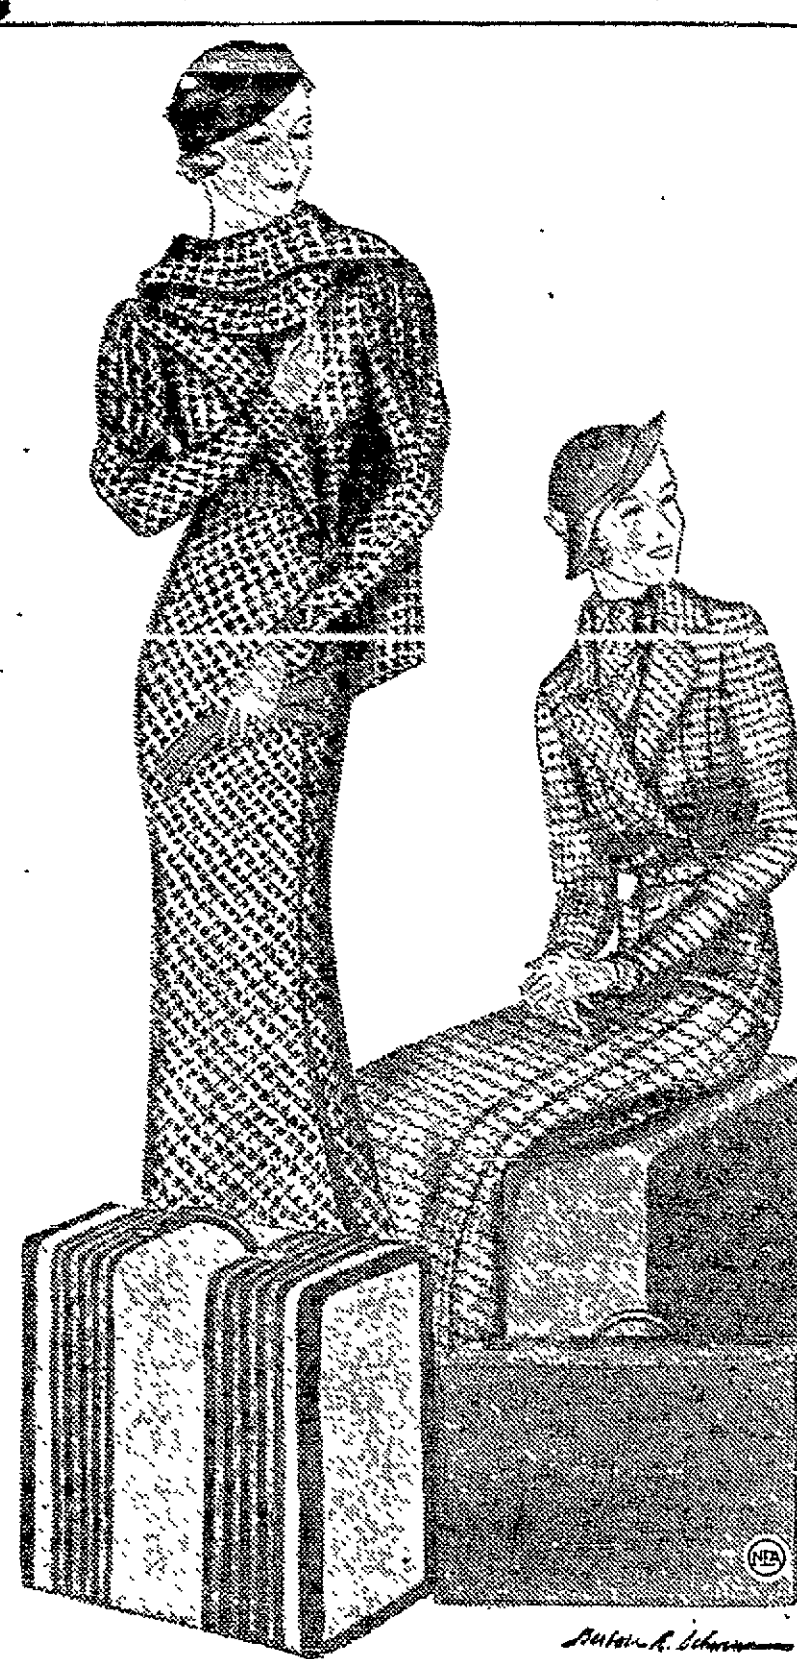

The car was stopping at the police station.

"Joan didn't come with you?" Sally said, putting it in the form of a question. "Why didn't she?"

"She was in her own car, starting out, before we could stop her," the officer answered. "There she is in the door."

CHECKS FOR TRAVELERS

Travelers' checks have more than cash value in style circles this winter. They are credentials of chic!

Wear them as you walk up the gangplank or board a train and you are stamped as a woman of taste. Only don't have your checks too big; this is no year to overdo.

The best checks are novel ones, done on the bias or with one line practically invisible so that from a distance you seem to be wearing stripes.

You can have almost any color combination you want, in these checks dated today. Green and tan, brown and beige, Oxford gray and white, light and dark Burgundy are among those worn by the smartest women.

The outstanding thing about the newest of these checked outfits is the gay way they score for trim. Have some kind of an interesting neckline, of the same tweed, and you are sure of your ground.

If you are travel-bent this winter, or even if you are just traveling around on your home territory, here is a checked tweed coat and a checked tweed suit that you should consider.

The coat is elegantly fitted in brown and beige with a very new scarf treatment that seems to be part of the lapel but actually is only a very wide scarf attached to the lapel. You can wear it thrown across the front, as shown, to make a cowl neckline and the end hanging down the back, or you can fasten the lapel up the left side and wear the scarf around your shoulders, with the end down the front.

The seated suit is green and tan tweed, handsomely tailored with a yoke to both coat and skirt and fancy stitching down from it. It has mannish notched collar and lapels and a separate Ascot scarf, which makes it ultra smart. The blouse to go with it is Autumn brown and ginger.

BY ANGELO PATRI

In the ancient days there was a place of refuge provided for the thoughtless sinner. Here he might dwell with safety until he could be judged by the congregation. No hand might touch him while he lived within the walls of his city of refuge.

That seems to me to be a fine idea. In this world of storm and stress there ought to be a place of refuge for every one of us so that we might retire to meditate upon our errors and search our souls for ways of peace, amendment and future strength. This is especially necessary for the children. Their emotions are unguarded. They frequently overflow the dams and cause sorrow and distress. At such times the place of refuge is a blessed place for the child and those about him.

When a little one loses control of himself and stamps and roars instead of shouting at him to be still, escort him to his place of refuge, his room, and leave him there to shout it out. The quiet of his room, the feeling of security its four walls lend his spirit, calm him and redirect him far sooner than anything you can do.

The habit of retiring to his room when he feels himself slipping is a fine one to establish. It helps him to gain control over himself. It teaches him to find strength within himself. As time goes on and he continues to seek refuge within his room, within his own soul, he becomes a saner, sweeter person, one whose strength is rooted in the Infinite.

Little children have to be kept close to the grownups so for them this place of refuge may be a secluded corner where there is some object of beauty to hold and direct his thoughts to better ways. Make the corner a beautiful place and it will do more effective work than if it is a couple of blank walls with no message for the peasant.

The older children need the quiet of their own rooms. If they have to share the room each can have his own corner where his chair and his precious possessions occupy the larger space. It is so much better for a child to seek his own room than to make a scene in the family gathering. His dignity is enhanced, his personality supported, his spirit soothed, which are consummations devoutly to be wished.

While we are about it let us remember the place of refuge for ourselves. Grownup people should be able to find it within their own selves but all of us are not grown up sufficiently for that at all times. We need the support of a good book, prayer, or meditation. That need calls for open churches. It is good to see the doors of churches standing wide open welcoming those who would go apart to their City of Refuge just for a moment out of the day's heavy hours.

The third room needs the quiet hour. Burdened fathers need to find a place where they can drop their loads for a moment or two. The children must have a safe retreat where the hand of the law cannot reach them, a place where justice must stand outside the door. A lit-

GOOD LATE TODAY

By Emily Post

VARIOUS PARTIES

My dear Mrs. Post: I want to give a surprise stag party for my husband on his birthday, which is soon. And among the guests I would like to invite a few old schoolmates and several business associates, including his boss who is eighteen years my husband's senior. Will this combination of guests be proper? My idea of a stag party is that the feminine contingent of the household should absent itself as much as possible. Should I sit down at table with them?

Answer: If men are congenial their ages do not matter. A stag dinner is the same as any other dinner excepting that no women should appear, ever. This does not necessarily apply to a waitress, but women members of the family should go out, or at least stay out of sight.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible for a mother to give a shower for her daughter? To me it is a polite form of begging. Am I right? Wedding invitations also exact gifts, but somehow they don't seem the same.

Answer: The word "begging" is too strong, but in sentiment I think you are perhaps right. A wedding is an event of importance to which it is an honor to be asked, whether the reception or breakfast be an elaborate entertainment or the simplest gathering. Moreover, it is not actually obligatory that every one invited send a present, although the majority of those invited to the house do send gifts. A shower, on the other hand, is nothing but a gift-giving. That is all the word "shower" (of gifts) means. Those who take part can do so only by "presenting a package," which the showered one opens. A cup of tea and a cookie, accepted or refused, is unimportant either way. Perhaps this explains why the bride's immediate family is not supposed to give her a shower, although they do give her wedding.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am expecting my sister and her husband to spend two weeks with me. The greater part of their time will be spent in sightseeing. I would like, however, just one afternoon to invite a great many friends to meet my guests. Just what kind of party should this be?

Answer: An afternoon tea. (Copyright, 1932.)

Your Birthday

"SAGITARIUS"

If November 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:15 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Indulgence operative on this November 23rd, should prove conducive to study. Your powers of concentration should be at their highest. You will find that problems coming to your attention will be easily solved. Take care, however, not to be hasty in your reasoning; don't jump at conclusions. Affairs of the heart will not prosper.

The child born on November 23rd will have an exuberant disposition. He will be fond of animals and will take good care of them. At school he will do moderately well but his interest will be more in the outdoors. He should show himself particularly adept in some sport. The child will show flashes of temper but he will not hold a grudge.

If November 23rd is your birthday, you will probably be able to make out of yourself a better than average success. You are one of the few people who realizes early in life that the ability to think is one of man's greatest possessions, and the greatest. Your mentality is not greatly above that of the average man, but in your case, you strive to use your mind, to think with it. You are a very frank person, sometimes to the point of being considered blunt. Your straightforward manner and naturally jovial nature enable you to make friends easily.

Born on November 23rd, you may be sure to be one of a number of fields of endeavor. You would be outstanding in the field of education, in the medical field, or in almost any field where your inherent creative ability could be employed. You would seem to have an inventive turn of mind which if properly developed might prove advantageous to you.

You are a person who enjoys freedom, and most particularly is the tie in your marriage relationship. To feel that you were tied down in any way is your mate would irk you no end. Yours is not a suspicious nature and you could not tolerate anyone who is. If you are a woman, you are inclined to be bossy, and at times to exhibit nagging tendencies. Guard against these if you would keep your home a happy one. Without trying, you are attractive to the opposite sex.

Successful People Born on November 23rd:

1—Franklin Pierce, 14th President of the United States.

2—William Dennison, statesman.

3—Josiah D. Whitney, geologist and educator.

4—John W. Ellis, jurist and governor of North Carolina.

5—Fanny Ward, actress.

6—G. B. McClellan, former mayor of New York.

TOUGH ON TRES

Chicago—Chicago motorists must worry about more than bullets. They wish to keep their tires whole. The "puncture vine" which is a native of the Mediterranean countries was somehow introduced into the western states and has now found its way to Chicago. The tack-like thorns of the vine are very pointed and are so placed that they pierce a tire regardless of the position of the tire and their fondness for growing beside a road make it especially bad for motorists.

Player Realizes Dream Of All Psychic Bidders

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Mr. L. M. Wood of Toronto, Canada, is known to his intimates as the Canadian Jacoby, according to Mr. John W. Jacobson of that city. Mr. Wood has long since mastered the art of bewildering his partner, and, striving for new worlds to conquer, has at last realized the dream of all psychic bidders. He has induced the opposition to play the contract in his strongest suit. This is the story of Mr. Wood's achievement, the success of which, however, he modestly attributes to his opponent in the North on the hand below:

The Bidding:
Figures after bids in table refer

1—Thus early, Mr. Wood attempts to set up a bidding defense against his vulnerable opponents.

2—A Small Slam appears absolutely certain to North. His partner's vulnerable Overall must be based on honor strength in hearts, and possibly the King of spades as well. If so, there is a Grand Slam in the hand.

3—Mr. Wood shows his second strongest suit.

4—Showing no losers in another adversely bid suit.

5—Unfortunately, Mr. Maloney overlooks the fact that he failed at any time to show support for his partner's suit, and Mr. McDonald, knowing of Mr. Wood's psychic proclivities, decides that Mr. Maloney has a very fine club suit.

In the play of the hand, it will be noted that Mr. Maloney ran into a very unfortunate division of the adversely held trumps and succeeded in making only 4 tricks. Mr. Wood, without a smile, marked up 1400 points above the line amidst the execrations and mutual recriminations of his victims.

A BOOK A DAY
BY BRUCE CATTON

Beauty Lies Beyond Hell

Ordinarily, when you find a novelist going stream-of-consciousness on you, you are quite safe in shutting him off and going out to a movie. However, in the novel "Beauty Lies Beyond Hell" by Howard W. Roper, this rule fails to apply. The book has a tortured, irritating style, but there's solid nourishment in it.

It is a story about a city lad in his middle teens. He wants to be an artist, and to do that he has to go to art school. He is an orphan and he has no money, so he has to slave away at a series of poorly paid odd jobs to put himself through school.

The story covers just one year in his life, and it leaves him in much the same situation as he occupied when the story began, but somehow, simple as it is, it tells you something—tells you something about the disinherited, and their struggle for a little bit more than daily bread, and the tantalizing dreams that come to them, and the pathetic ways in which they try to make them come true.

This lad works—in a dance hall, in a chemical factory, in a store. He meets girls, loves them, loses them; they move away, or they fall ill and die, or better men come along and take them away. And all the time he keeps his eyes on his great ambition, and tries to fight through to the beauty which he has glimpsed.

It makes a moving story. You'll find it a bit hard to read, maybe, but it's worth the effort. Mr. Roper is sincere, and he understands things.

HE'S ALL RIGHT
Miami, Fla.—The witnesses were overwhelmingly in favor of the defendant and so G. W. Warren, Negro minister, was discharged on a vagrancy complaint. The minister brought 100 Negroes, members of his flock, to testify that he was not a vagrant. Loud cheers, whistles and stomping followed the verdict.

My Neighbor Says—

The cranberry sauce served in glass cups and arranged at each plate adds color to the Thanksgiving table.

To keep stored silver bright before putting it away it should be carefully washed, polished and placed in flannel bags. Colored flannel is best, as the chemicals used to bleach the white flannel are liable to tarnish the silver.

Eggs should not be boiled, but put in cold water and allowed to heat gradually, or else dropped into boiling water and then removed from the fire. An easy way is to put them into a bowl of boiling water, allowing a cupful for each egg and one for the bowl. Let them stand for at least five minutes. Cooked in this manner they closely resemble poached eggs.

Evans Pictures Washington as Human Citizen

Scores Biographers Who Make Him More or Less of an Idol

Menasha—George Washington was an American before there was an America. Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college, said at Menasha's official observance of the bi-centennial anniversary at Butte des Morts school Monday evening.

Speaking to a large audience, Dr. Evans pictured Washington as an intensely human individual, but said that he was one of the finest and purest souls that ever stood at the forefront of a nation.

Describing Washington's character, the speaker scored not only the so-called biographers but also the historians who have made the father of the country more or less of an idol or myth. Even a number of the great leaders' letters and his diary have been expurgated, he said.

Dr. Evans touched briefly on Washington's service to his country, pointing out that he served in the Indian Wars, led the revolutionary army for eight years without pay, acted as president of the convention that created the United States Constitution, the greatest document ever penned by the hand of man, and was the country's first choice for president.

Real Democracy

Washington's Democracy was big enough to include rich and poor, learned and ignorant, and there is need today for downright, homely, old-fashioned patriotism", Dr. Evans said.

Pointing to Washington's sacrifices for his country, he said: "In these days of depression, there isn't a person in this house that isn't living in vast luxury compared to Washington for eight or ten years of his life."

W. H. Miner, chairman of the Menasha Washington bi-centennial committee, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the speaker.

The program opened with three songs by the Menasha high school band, playing under the direction of L. B. Kraft, and continued with performances by pupils of the Butte des Morts, Jefferson and Nicolet grade schools which included patriotic pictures, a soldier dance, a tableau and other features.

Joseph Liska, Jr., played two violin solos and following the address by Dr. Evans, the band played "America" and the audience sang the first and last verses.

H. G. Bemis Succumbs Monday Evening—Injured in fall Year Ago

Menasha—H. G. Bemis, 88, a resident of Menasha for more than 50 years, died at 10 o'clock Monday evening at the home, 353 Broad-st., which he had built a half-century ago and in which he lived during his entire residence here. Death was caused by the infirmities of old age, but he was active until within the past year when he was injured in a fall at his home.

He served one term at first ward supervisor on the Winnebago city board a few years ago and the city flag was placed at half mast in respect to him today.

With his brother he went to Cincinnati and later to Sheboygan where he engaged in the manufacture of shoes. He continued in this field until 18 years ago when he retired. He was married to Gertrude Kirkland of Sheboygan Falls, Oct. 10, 1872 and they observed the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage this year, after 52 years of residence in Menasha.

Survivors are his widow, two daughters, Mrs. W. M. Ruckle of Wisconsin Rapids, and Mrs. O. V. Thiele of New York city, and three sisters, Mrs. Alonzo Watkins and Mrs. Elizabeth Mossman, both of Ashburnham, Mass., and Mrs. Frank Whitney of Fitchburg, Mass.

Funeral services will be held at the residence at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The Rev. John Best, pastor of the First Congregational church, will officiate and interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery. The body will be at the Pelton funeral home until Friday morning.

Board Studies Soldier Relief, Highway Program

Believe Appropriation for Former Purpose May Be Cut to $35,000

Neenah—The question of soldiers' relief, a $50,000 item on the tentative Winnebago-co budget for 1933, was the special order of business at the Monday afternoon session of the supervisors at Oshkosh.

Following a statement by F. B. Keete, Winnebago-co district attorney, that an adequate appropriation is mandatory upon the board, the problem was the center of considerable discussion. Final action was delayed but supervisors believed early today that the proposed appropriation would be reduced to about $35,000.

Discussion of the 1933 highway program opened at the morning session Tuesday and arguments for and against retention of the office of county agricultural agent were expected Tuesday afternoon.

The Oshkosh taxpayers' committee checked up more thoroughly was commended in the letter, particularly the suggestion to follow up every aid case to find out how the aid money is being applied. The recommendation for the 25 percent budget cut does not include poor relief, it was stated.

In response to comments from a floor, Chairman George B. Young said that the board will be willing at any time to receive a delegation from the committee if that group has any specific suggestions to offer for cutting the 1933 budget.

The text of the committee's letter to the board was as follows:

"The Oshkosh Taxpayers' committee has noted with great interest the efforts which are being put forth at the present session of the board to bring about the greatest possible measure of relief to the taxpayers of the county in making up the 1933 budget and we are mindful and appreciative of the substantial relief extended to the taxpayers this year through your board's reduction of the county budget for 1932.

"We likewise commend most heartily your efforts to obtain the greatest possible efficiency in the granting and administration of all forms of county relief through insuring proper investigation and continuing following up of every case. We consider these matters of as great importance as the granting of the relief itself, and without which no relief program can ever be justified.

Asked City Cut

"Our committee has suggested to the city administration that there be a reduction of at least 25 percent in the city's expenditures for general city purposes, exclusive of poor relief, in 1933 as against what was expended for the same purposes in 1932. We commend to your board consideration of a like program.

"In the present emergency, perhaps the greatest our country has ever faced, there comes at this time from every precinct a similar call so that we, representing over 2,000 taxpayers of the city of Oshkosh, now present to you for a program of economy for 1933, as ungrudgingly as the citizens we are called upon to meet. If every taxing unit does its duty in this respect, it is not going to be long before we have the depression whipped and better days will be in sight."

Board Studies Soldier Relief, Highway Program

Believe Appropriation for Former Purpose May Be Cut to $35,000

Neenah—The question of soldiers' relief, a $50,000 item on the tentative Winnebago-co budget for 1933, was the special order of business at the Monday afternoon session of the supervisors at Oshkosh.

Following a statement by F. B. Keete, Winnebago-co district attorney, that an adequate appropriation is mandatory upon the board, the problem was the center of considerable discussion. Final action was delayed but supervisors believed early today that the proposed appropriation would be reduced to about $35,000.

Discussion of the 1933 highway program opened at the morning session Tuesday and arguments for and against retention of the office of county agricultural agent were expected Tuesday afternoon.

The Oshkosh taxpayers' committee checked up more thoroughly was commended in the letter, particularly the suggestion to follow up every aid case to find out how the aid money is being applied. The recommendation for the 25 percent budget cut does not include poor relief, it was stated.

In response to comments from a floor, Chairman George B. Young said that the board will be willing at any time to receive a delegation from the committee if that group has any specific suggestions to offer for cutting the 1933 budget.

The text of the committee's letter to the board was as follows:

"The Oshkosh Taxpayers' committee has noted with great interest the efforts which are being put forth at the present session of the board to bring about the greatest possible measure of relief to the taxpayers of the county in making up the 1933 budget and we are mindful and appreciative of the substantial relief extended to the taxpayers this year through your board's reduction of the county budget for 1932.

"We likewise commend most heartily your efforts to obtain the greatest possible efficiency in the granting and administration of all forms of county relief through insuring proper investigation and continuing following up of every case. We consider these matters of as great importance as the granting of the relief itself, and without which no relief program can ever be justified.

Asked City Cut

"Our committee has suggested to the city administration that there be a reduction of at least 25 percent in the city's expenditures for general city purposes, exclusive of poor relief, in 1933 as against what was expended for the same purposes in 1932. We commend to your board consideration of a like program.

"In the present emergency, perhaps the greatest our country has ever faced, there comes at this time from every precinct a similar call so that we, representing over 2,000 taxpayers of the city of Oshkosh, now present to you for a program of economy for 1933, as ungrudgingly as the citizens we are called upon to meet. If every taxing unit does its duty in this respect, it is not going to be long before we have the depression whipped and better days will be in sight."

Thieves Enter Three Places At New London

Draperies and Rugs, Valued at Over $100, Stolen at Express Office

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Thieves broke into three places here Saturday night, making away with merchandise and wrecking fixtures. At the Wadhams bulk station on St. John's place the front door was forced and about $5 worth of postage stamps and a fountain pen were missing when the place was opened for business by Lee Johnson Monday morning. On Sunday night, Elmer Meiden, manager of the American Express office, in a department separate from the Chicago and Northwestern depot, found that windows had been pried up in both departments. In the waiting room two candy machines and a gum machine had been demolished to net the thief or thieves about 45 cents. The ticket office door had also been forced, drawers pried open and the entire place ransacked.

The greater loss occurred in the express office, where three packages of merchandise, including Persian draperies, small rugs and ornamental spreads valued at about $100, were missing in a general checkup conducted by A. E. Everitt, Milwaukee, auditor for the Chicago and Northwestern road.

The police are working on the three cases. Both the depot and the Wadhams station are isolated.

Waupaca Editor Hurt In Automobile Crash

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Robert Wright, Waupaca editor, was injured in a motor accident last week. Returning from Stevens Point, he fell asleep at the wheel. The car ran into a guard rail near Custer and a 14-foot plank penetrated his car, entering the radiator, shearing off parts of the engine, and going through the front seat directly below the wheel.

The sudden impact threw Wright to one side and this fact probably accounts for the fact that he escaped with only a severe cut on his right leg. He returned to his home from the hospital at Waupaca Sunday.

Dinner and Program For Rotarians, Wives

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—One of the most entertaining events planned by Rotarians this season was the annual dinner for Rotary wives given Monday night at the Elwood hotel. About 60 were present for dinner. With F. L. Zaig, Rotary president, as toastmaster, Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer regaled the assemblage with a rapid fire talk. Following this an intelligence test was conducted for club members and later for Rotary wives. The Rotarians won, 20 to 2, but it was later proved that the winner matter had been connived at by A. L. Severance, who had posted all men present on the correct answers to questions presented.

Other features of interest was the series of magical tricks presented by Robert Pfeiffer, and the showing of motion pictures by Carl Wettengel of Appleton. These pictures, depicting bull fighting were taken by Wettengel in a trip abroad last summer. George Wettengel, also of Appleton, was a guest.

$2,500 Decrease in School Tax Levy in Town of Brillion

School District Clerks Ask For $3,494 for Educational Purposes

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—With Monday concluding the statutory period for the filing of school district tax levies with the town clerk by the school district clerks, an initial levy of $3,494.00 for school purposes has been entered in the 1933 tax roll of the town of Brillion. The figure is a reduction of nearly $2,500 from the 1931 school taxes, which aggregated $5,977.12.

While reductions occur in the figure from each of the five whole districts and portions of five joint districts in the township, the more noticeable reductions are in district 5 where the levy is $50 against $200 in 1931; in district 7, where the levy dropped from $500 to $300; and in joint district 2 of town Brillion and Brillion village, a high school district, which raised $3,558.11 last year. This year district 3, an area detached from the high school district last June, raises $1,000, and three tracts remaining in the high school district are taxed $87.40.

Though reduced valuations aggregating $271,625 have a tendency to equalize the school tax rates of 1931 and 1932, the latter are substantially lower. Reductions per thousand dollars of valuation range all the way from 9 cents in district 6 to $1.29 in joint district 2, towns Brillion and Holland. The lowest rate prevails in district 5 amounting 17 cents per $1,000 as compared to 60 cents in 1931. The highest, amounting to $7.85 per $1,000, occurs in the high school district, where the rate last year was $9.50.

Forty children at Zion Evangelical Sunday school participated in the annual promotion exercises held Sunday morning. Twenty beginners were promoted to the primary department. Eleven primary pupils were advanced to the junior department, and nine junior pupils were transferred to the young people's division. The promotions will be effective with the new year.

Miss Rena Kloehn, superintendent of the children's division, presided at the exercises which featured memory work, and the Rev. W. L. Zeller awarded the promotion certificates.

The excavation has been completed for a basement at Webster school, district 4, town of Woodville. The building is being erected further in on its present lot to avoid undue proximity to Highway 10, which, in recent grading operations preparatory to paving, has been widened to 120 feet at the location. Additional land is being acquired at the rear of the present school grounds to compensate for that taken at the front for highway purposes. Persistent temperatures below freezing have been delaying further activities in the construction of the basement.

A cargo of over six tons of potatoes figured in an accident here when a heavy truck of G. A. Bergman and Sons of Manitowish, Mich., destined for Chicago, tipped over in running off the Highway 57 and Johnsonville, Wis. Friday.

When a fire blew out the truck swerved through a wire fence and tipped over in a field. Though crippled for further service, the truck was able to return empty to Manitowish. Pending disposition by the owner, the potatoes are being stored in the basement of the John Seybold farm residence near which the accident occurred. Two occupants of the truck escaped injury.

A group of local hunters including A. A. Jansch, Lyle Jansch, Clarence Keller, Milton Seybold, and Wilbert Seybold left here early Saturday morning to engage in deer hunting in the northern part of the state. One detachment headed for the vicinity of Ladysmith; the other will hunt in the vicinity of Phillips.

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is surprised when her childhood sweetheart, STEVE SACARELLI, returns to New York after three years' mysterious absence. Mona contributes largely to the support of her mother, invalid father, sister, KITTY, and ne'er-do-well brother, BUD. Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with "BARRY TOWNSHEND, rich and socially prominent, who owns a diamond mine. Together they have made the mine believed worthless, pay handsomely. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru."

LOTTE CARR, fashion model, joins Mona, Barry and Steve, on several dinner and dancing engagements. Mona's brother, BUD, is under obligations to BUCK HARKINS, night club proprietor and gangster, who plots to steal the huge diamond.

Steve tells Mona and Lotte that he has hidden the diamond in his apartment. The four young people are there when Bud, following Harkins' orders, telephones that his mother is ill. He comes to take Mona home. When the girls have gone, Steve, suspecting trickery, prepares to meet the jewel thieves. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

IT was not long before Steve telephoned Mona. It was as he had surmised. Her mother, it appeared, was not ill. She had been asleep when they arrived. Mona was going to bed and Bud had escorted Lotte home.

"Mum!" said Steve musingly. "Well I'm glad your mother is all right. I'll call you tomorrow. Good-night."

As he put down the telephone he looked at Barry who was regarding him uncertainly.

"No, I don't think the girls were in on this," he said answering the unspoken question in Barry's eyes. "If that's what you want to know! Somehow Harkins' gang knew—or guessed—that we had the Empress here. Before Bud leaves Lotte they'll know where we had it."

"You think Lotte will tell them?" Barry demanded.

Steve shrugged. "She wouldn't mean to, but she couldn't keep from it. Before that cab was around the block she probably gave Mona a blazer for not taking the necklace. That would lead straight to the refrigerator and the Empress! Wait, old chap, you'll see."

"Are you sure?"

Steve was changing to soft felt slippers and instructing Barry to do the same.

"Nothing is sure," he said, "except death and taxes—both of which I seem to have evaded thus far. However, right now we can't evade. If they're chumps enough to send Bud back here we have them in our pocket. If they think we're at the club they may send him. They'll reason that any fool can open an ice box."

Quickly Steve pushed two easy chairs well back to the room so that they were almost concealed from view. The two men sat down. They did not smoke lest the smell of freshly burning tobacco should apprise the expected visitor of their presence.

Twelve o'clock. One. One-thirty—At length their vigil was rewarded. The outer door opened cautiously. A spot of light swam into the room, bobbing across the rugs with startling clarity.

Footsteps—wavered, then firmer. The circle of light picked out the divan, the paneled wall, hung on the swinging door which led to the butler's pantry.

Crouching in their chairs, Steve and Barry held their breath.

Someone was walking in the wake of the flashlight, stepping on rugs and avoiding the polished floor, disappeared into the pantry. The door swung noiselessly in the dim light of the window.

"Moran!" Steve breathed, scarcely moving.

"How did he get in?" whispered Barry.

"That gang has a locksmith that could make a key to Buckingham Palace in 10 minutes," Steve said. "They don't care much if Bud gets plugged or not, do they?"

Steve was on his feet, motioning Barry to stay where he was. "Rest easy, boy. I'm taking a little stroll."

With a cheery and sudden "Good morning," Steve entered the kitchen just as Bud was about to open the door of the refrigerator.

"Thought you were at the club," Bud faltered.

"I meant you to think so. What are you doing at that ice box? Did the gang send you for the Empress?"

Bud swung around sharply. "You know what I'm here for, Steve."

The other nodded. "You didn't think you'd get it that easily, did you? Don't be a fool! Here (indicating the door) "get inside. We're going to have a talk and you can thank your stars that Mona is your sister."

"It was Lotte who told me where to find the Empress," Bud blurted.

"Sure. It was Lotte I expected to tell. For a moment Steve and Barry eyed each other.

"Sit down, Bud," Steve said. "Let's talk it over. Smoke?"

He held out his cigaret case and struck a match. The boy ducked his head to catch the flame, his hand trembling.

"Anyone waiting for you down below?" Steve asked after a moment.

"Sure. Out front."

"The rear covered?"

Bud looked at him. "Rear? No. Just two guys waiting down the block with an engine running."

Steve rose, threw off his dressing gown and disappeared into the bedroom. In a moment he emerged, shoving his arms into a coat.

"Tell you what we're going to do, Barry," he said. "We're going to slip this kid to the mine. He'll be sure there and the gang can't find him. The Lady Bradford, says, 'morrow noon from Boston. Is your car handy, Barry? Mine's in the street where those fellows can spot it."

"In the 79th street garage," Barry said. He too rose and went for a coat. "I'll telephone and have it sent around."

"Tell them the drug store on the corner around the block. We can go down the servants' elevator, through the basement and out to the street. They'll never follow us."

Steve turned to Bud. "Harkins is going to be mighty disappointed, isn't he?"

The boy moved sullenly. "What makes you think it's Harkins?" He lifted his eyes for the first time. "Everybody knows about the Empress. You offered it in the open market. Everyone's talking about it."

"I saw you with Harkins at the Halcyn Club," Steve told him impressively. He hesitated. "Boy, thank your lucky stars that we're with you! You won't have a chance if Harkins finds out you didn't put it over! We'll drive you to Boston and in two weeks more you'll be with Foster at the mine. We'll call him to meet the boat at Trinidad. He goes over every so often by plane."

"They'll bump you sure, Steve!"

Steve grinned. "Yeah! Boy, news is going to break tomorrow that'll make them forget everything!"

The three crept from the apartment down the service elevator to the basement, thence through to the apartment house directly adjoining. Cautiously they emerged from the basement to the street. Bud's confederates were a block away, out of sight and around two corners.

In front of the drug store Barry's car was waiting. He tossed a bill to a mechanic, slid beneath the wheel and Steve and Bud crowded in beside him. The car whirled and moved away, heading northward. Two-thirty. Three o'clock. Four. Like a shot from a gun the car sped on toward Boston.

"Steve," said Barry as they darted out of Springfield after a long period of silence. "Is the Empress safe? Won't the rest of the gang be chewing nails by nine o'clock tomorrow?" Steve laughed. "Good Lord, I forgot to tell you. The Empress isn't in the refrigerator. It isn't even in the apartment!"

"But you said—"

"Right! I said it was in the refrigerator. So it was! Towny! But not any longer. I sold the Empress yesterday."

"What?"

"I sold the Empress," Steve leaned over and thumped Barry on the back. "Got a very pretty price for her, too! Enough to finance the new machinery and set things going in a big way."

"But the Empress was yours, Steve. I can't take."

Steve shrugged. "We've gone through all that before, old chap. The Empress was mine. Granted. I sold the darn thing. What use was it to me, except for money? If you like, I'll call your share of the expense a loan. It can be paid back when our mine is going to have the finest equipment in South America! We're sitting pretty."

"Steve, I can't do this!"

"Then I'll do it. It's our mine isn't it? Then it was our Empress, our machinery. And Bud is our new employee. Let's see, kid which department do you think you'd like best?" (To Be Continued)

Only Three Boys on 1932 Team Will Return Next Year

MELVIN "Bud" Buesing, an end and Anton "Tony" Popp, a half back, last night were named co-captains of the Appleton high school football team for 1933. They were two of three junior boys who will return to the squad next fall.

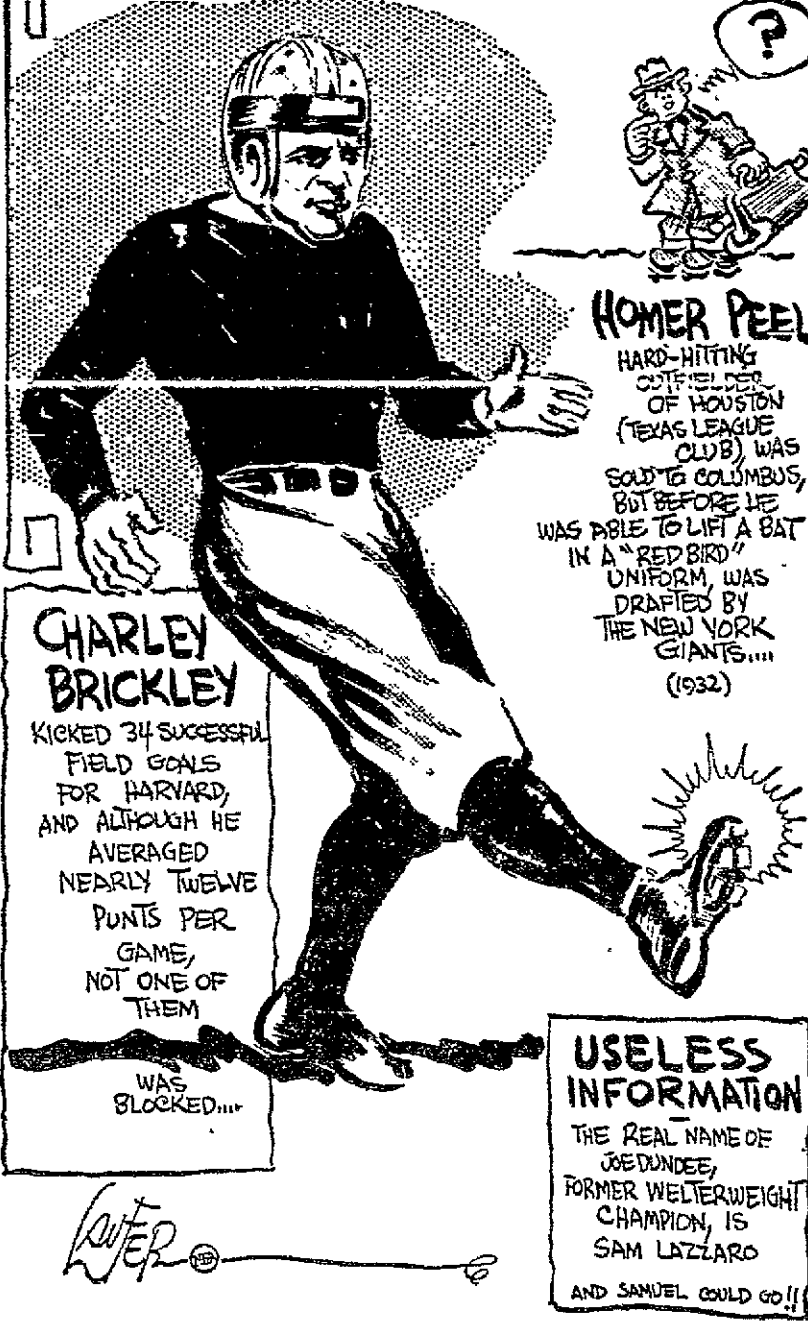

The election of the captains for next season was made at the annual high school football banquet at Hotel Appleton. The boys, Coaches Shields and Seims, high school officers and Coach Percy Clapp of Lawrence college were the guests of the Girls Athletic association at the dinner.

Sixteen members of the 1932 squad were awarded letters. All except the two captains and Archie Van Ryzin are seniors and will be lost to the Orange next season. The letter winners are Melvin Buesing, Edward Krause, Evan Vande Walle, Cliff Burton, Justin Tillman, Bob Merrifield, Milton Schulze, Don Manier, Jack Bowers, George Rooney, Cy Burton, Ernie Ruppel, Victor Salm, Anton Popp, Archie Van Ryzin and Don Johnson. Manager Orville Hinz also was awarded a letter.

Other members of the squad who will not return next season but who did not see enough action to win letters this fall are Chet Wurl, Herbert Karrow, Marvin Green, Joe Burke, Charles Arnold, Harold Gramse and Sidney Dutcher.

Eight Regulars, Two Alternates Will Make Up Ryder Squad

Peoria, Ill.—(P)—The Professional Golfers association today got down to the business of selecting the team of eight regulars and two alternates which will meet Great Britain's pros stars in the Ryder cup matches next May.

It was indicated that Walter Hagen would be named captain of the American forces, with Gene Sarazen and Olin Dutra the only others reasonably certain of places.

The delegates approved two amendments to the constitution of the association in the opening session yesterday. It was decided that alternates or substitutes to qualifiers for the championship tournament shall not be eligible to play for the title, as has been permitted previously.

The second amendment will give stars from abroad an opportunity to make bids for the U. S. pro title, the executive committee having been given power to extend invitations to such players.

At Wednesday's meeting the boys will make plans for an eight team loop to start play early in December. The Older Boy league has flourished for several seasons, the league race always attracting more than a little attention.

Kraft Cheese, Appleton, won one game from the Biglick Recreation, Berlin, in Mid Wisconsin league bowling Sunday. The Appleton team copped the first game with a 237 by Brecklin and 210 by Vervey. Brecklin rolled 220 in the second game but the Cheese lost. In the third game Brecklin had a 187 and a 644 for the series score.

C. Cujak of the Berlin team went him one higher, however, rolling 213, 218, 242 for a series score of 668.

Three Allouez bowlers won three straight games from two members of the Admiral squad last night in K. of C. circles and the former team still leads the loop by a single game. Hy Strutz had a 211 in the first win, F. Felt 200 in the second and Strutz 170 in the third.

The old boys on the Crusader team won three last night and themselves. Chief George Prim was hitting in big league style last night and paced his club with a 135 in the second game. He then repeated with a 153 in the second and let John Morgan do the heavy work in the third with a 156. The San Pedros were the victims.

Columbians also copped three games. They won the first with McCabe's 178, the second with Crab's 194 and the third with Connelly's 189. The Calumets, four of them, were the losers.

Mariners showed five keggers and won from the Santa Maries by a 2 and 1 count. The latter had only three bowlers on hand.

Magellans, Appleton, won the first game with 10 pins and the Navigators won by 10 pins in the second game. Magellans won the third with 10 pins.

Linenmen Win
By the way, it seems more former linenmen have been successful coaches this year than backs... Howard Jones was an end in his days at Yale... though his brother Tad swept to fame before him as a back... Howard now is reaping the fruit of years of palms taking toll... Hunk Anderson was a lineman, too... and Joe Sutherland, coach of a splendid eleven at Pitt this year, was one of the greatest linenmen Pitt ever had.

Noble Kizer, whose Purdue team this year is just about as good as there is, was one of the Seven Mules who did the work for the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame... Clipper Smith, whose Santa Clara team upset the big boys on the Pacific Coast this year, was a lineman at Notre Dame... Fritz Crisler, who gave Princeton a good waking up, played end... Dr. Pat Spears, whose Badgers have been the sensation of the Big Ten this year, was an All-America guard at Dartmouth... and Major Bob Neyland, Tennessee's coach, was a star end at West Point.

Murder will out.
Fans, astonished at the decline of Milwaukee Washington high school gridiron supremacy, have wondered and wondered.

Operatives, employed by loyal alumni, have after untiring efforts, uncovered the plot.

Coach Lisle Blackburn has taken up ping-pong. Oh, do tell!

Myrt Basing, former Lawrence college and Green Bay Packer gridder, and Lloyd (Tom) Goan, another ex-Viking, became addicts some months ago. Blackburn gave 'em the Bronx for their fall from he-men's grace, lingered on to watch—and fell.

Wonder what Cub Buck, ex-Vike mentor, will think of his peerless proteges now.

At least, not up to standard.

Colgate, Brown Will be "Natural" For Eastern Fans

Both Schools Represented By Good Lines and Strong Backfields

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(P)—The championship "natural" of the eastern football season will send Colgate's "Red Raiders" against the giant-killing Brown Bears at Providence Thursday.

Alone of the east's 130 college teams, these two have come down to the final game unbeaten and untied and the temptation will be strong to crown the winner champion whatever the claims of Pittsburgh, Army and other high-powered outfits.

Were the records to be taken at face value, there would be little hesitancy in picking Colgate as the probable winner. Andy Kerr's great eleven, with a sure-handed backfield working at lightning speed behind a fast, sturdy line, is the only major team in the country with an uncrossed goal.

Kerr's tricky offensive, thoroughly mastered by Bobby Samuel, Charlie Soleau, Whitey Ask, Bob Rowe and Jack Fritts, has scored 243 points against St. Lawrence, Case, Niagara, Lafayette, New York University, Penn State, Mississippi College and Syracuse. And the Raiders' own goal has hardly been threatened.

Against this record, the 81 points Brown has scored while holding the enemy to 21 do not stack up impressively. But the Bears, with just as good a line as Colgate's and a fine backfield in which quarterback Bob Chase is the outstanding star, have had the knack this season of coming through in the pinches.

They were all but beaten by Holy Cross but marched almost the length of the field in the last few minutes of play to win 10-7. They trailed Columbia's previously unbeaten eleven for three quarters and then staged another long march in the final period to win 7-6. Harvard, Yale, Tufts, Springfield and Rhode Island were the Bears' other victims.

Appleton Man M. U. Boxing Instructor

Because of his ability shown last year, Joseph R. McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim McCarthy, route 1, Appleton, has been appointed boxing instructor at Marquette university, Milwaukee. He succeeds Curtis Brown, present athletic director of the Milwaukee Eagles' club, who had coached Hilltop fighters for several years.

McCarthy reports a large turnout of aspiring candidates for the Marquette squad and is optimistic concerning his outlook for the coming season. Several veterans have also reported.

A freshman in the Marquette school of law, McCarthy has recently been honored by being chosen president of his class.

Dan Courtney's 210. W. Wellen had 206 for the Navigators in the same game.

Shamrocks won two from the De Soto team. The Rocks won the first game with R. Gee's 195 and despite a 201 by W. Keller of the De Sotos. Schommer led the De Sotos to a win in the second game with a 196 but Shamrocks won the third with Fravelly's 203.

Balboas copped two games from the San Salvadores and the Pintas won two from the Marquettes.

J. Schneider rolled a big 225 for high score of the evening, and with 167 and 171 had 537 for high series. De Soto had a 547 team score and Columbians 850, 932, 940-2722 for high match score.

Miami, Fla.—Arturo Godoy, Chile, stopped Johnny Mack, Cincinnati (5).

Toronto—Billy Townsend, Vancouver, outpunted Frankie Petrolie, Schenectady, N. Y., (10).

Bernie Bierman Reflects On a "Fair" Grid Season

MINNEAPOLIS—(P)—The man who came north from Tulane to coach football at his alma mater looked back on his first season at Minnesota today and pronounced his record only fair.

But reticent and modest Bernie Bierman, lacking a championship to talk about for the first time in four years, added that all in all his Gophers fared better than Minnesota teams of recent seasons.

And what were the differences between southern and Big Ten football, judged after a year in the north?

Only one, replied the coach who as halfback captained Minnesota's last Western conference championship team in 1915.

"They play a more open game down there. Up this way they depend more on power."

"Had a Fair Season"
"We had a fair season, that's all," Bierman said. "The only thing that kept all of our late season troubles were brought about by an unusual number of injuries. Before that, Purdue, second opponent of the fall, was much further advanced than we were."

"But in games won and lost—considering the games and scores and schedules—it was better than in a number of years. The record is better than in '29, '30, and '31. That's a little consolation but it's nothing to be excessively proud of."

The squad he took charge of last spring after winning three consecutive southern conference titles at

Badgers Scored Most Points in Big Ten Race

MADISON—(P)—Wisconsin and Michigan rank as the best offensive and defensive football teams, respectively, in the Western conference this year.

The Badgers scored 105 points in the Big Ten race this year, four more than Purdue. Only six points were scored against Michigan during the entire Big Ten season, and they represented Northwestern's touchdown in the first conference game.

In Big Ten games only, the teams ranked as follows for offensive honors: Wisconsin 195, Purdue 101, Northwestern 90, Michigan 83; Illinois 43; Minnesota 41, Indiana 39, Ohio State 37, Chicago 27 and Iowa 2.

Counting conference games only, the 10 teams ranked as follows for defensive honors: Michigan 6; Purdue 20, Ohio State 34, Minnesota 35, Wisconsin 46, Northwestern 55, Indiana 70, Chicago 87; Illinois 94, and Iowa 120.

For the entire season, counting non-conference games as well as conference tilts, Purdue ran up the

Club Team Will Show Veteran Squad in Independent Circles

Kimberly—The Kimberly club basketball team, last year's winner in the district Y. M. C. A. tournament at Appleton, is fast rounding into form after several practice sessions. The personnel of the team is exactly the same as last season with Gossens, La May, Bourassa, and Vanden Zanden, forwards; Du Pont, center and Busch and Schwanke, guards.

Gossens' work at Appleton in the district league, where he sank seven baskets in the final game, will long be remembered in this vicinity. La May, his running mate is unusually clever man and were it not for the phenomenal work of Gossens his record would look even better. Du Pont at center, is a hard worker, scrappy player, and a power on the defense.

Busch and Schwanke, at guard are unusually powerful and fast. Vanden Zanden and Bourassa both can be put into a game and counted on for a few baskets. Bourassa tall and rangy, has an uncanny eye for the basket.

Several years back Ossie Cook and Louis Loose put Kimberly's name on the basketball map in large letters and it stayed for several years. Fans will remember such stars as Pete Koll, Elmer Boettcher, Williams and Dud Cochran. With the passing of these boys the game faded. Now it seems with the present set up things will flourish again. Last year Kimberly won 30 games and lost 9, scoring 1,326 points to 917 for the opponents. One of their defeats was by Co. G, Madison, winners in the state tournament at Green Bay.

George McElroy, manager of the team is negotiating for games and expects to announce his schedule in the near future.

Murray Seeking New Men for His Eleven

Milwaukee—(P)—As a result of injuries received by players in the Washington and Jefferson game, Coach Frank J. Murray of the Marquette University football team today was looking for material to fill three places on his eleven in anticipation of the Drake game here Saturday. Rollie Halfman, fullback, Billy de Makes, quarterback, and Milton Trost, right tackle, were on the casualty lists. Dick Drew, reserve quarterback from Waukegan, Ill., called signals for the varsity during yesterday's practice.

Big 4 Mentors Name Vikes on All Star Eleven

Vogel, Walters on First Team; Three on Second Squad

RIPON—Six members of the Ripon college eleven, the championship squad of the Big Four circuit, have been awarded places on the mythical all-conference first team. Carroll placed three men and Lawrence two. On the second team, Carroll, Beloit and Lawrence each placed three. Ripon two. These results were disclosed today from ballots submitted by coaches Glenn F. Thistlethwaite, Carroll; Percy O. Clapp, Lawrence; Carl H. DeHelling, Ripon; Robert K. Jaggard, Beloit.

Walter Holmes, Ripon's crack halfback from Stoughton and leading ground gainer in the conference, was the only unanimous choice. This signal honor automatically entitles him to the captaincy of the all-star team. Art Showers, Ripon's senior guard and captain from Fort Atkinson, missed a unanimous vote by one point. Everett Meyers, Nakoosa, Ripon's quarterback, was almost a unanimous choice for that post on the first team. Ashman, Lawrence, and De Santis, Carroll, ran a close race for second team pilot position, the latter winning by a vote.

Greco at Center
Greco, Ripon's sophomore center from Milwaukee, nosed out Breen of Carroll by a point. Breen, however, was awarded a post at guard. There was also a close race for the fullback position between Jordan, Carroll, and Harold Duac, Ripon, with the first team position awarded to Jordan.

Saar, Beloit, and Fitzgerald, Beloit, both of whom made the honorary first team last year, were with the second squad at tackle and half in this season's selection.

Jordan of Carroll, and three Ripon men—Runyon, Hulka and Meyers, all of them were placed on the 1931 second team, advanced to the first squad this year.

Three men were placed on the all-conference teams in positions which they did not regularly play with their own squads. Breen, Carroll center, received the honor of guard position. Allen, Beloit guard, was placed on the second team as center in the final tabulation. Kramer, Lawrence tackle, was shifted to a guard post in the voting.

Men who received more than one vote but who did not place on either team were: Rothman, Carroll back; Sullivan, Ripon end; J. Smith, Ripon tackle; Nichols, Carroll end; Ashman, Lawrence quarterback; Gebhardt, Lawrence halfback; Kupke, Beloit end.

Following is the personnel of the first and second Big Four all-conference teams:

First Team	Second Team
Left Guard	Rich, Carroll
Center	Saar, Beloit
Right Guard	Greco, Ripon

George Bates Cops Three Cushion Title

George Bates, Minneapolis, formerly of Appleton and a son of Mrs. Louis Lohman, won the northwestern divisional three cushion billiard title a few days ago when he won six straight games against the best angle shooters in the Twin Cities. He did not lose a game. His final game was by a count of 50 and 47, the contest going 90 innings.

Bates' victory allowed him to enter sectional play at Minneapolis.

New York.—(P)—The cause of higher prices attracted a feeble following in today's stock market, and after the list had edged a little higher, prices slipped back in the late trading. The close found net changes largely of negligible proportions, with a number of issues fractionally lower. The final tone was easy. Transfers approximated only half a million shares.

Prices moved in an extremely narrow groove for the fifth consecutive session, and professional traders generally found the market too slow for profit, some complaining that they could not make enough to pay the transfer taxes. Firmness of wheat was evidently helpful for a time, but that market lost part of its gain in the late trading.

Coca Cola was a spot spot, breaking about 4 points. Rumors were about steady. New York Central and Union Pacific finished unchanged. International Harvester and Case were firm for a time, in sympathy with wheat, but closed with negligible changes. Selling in Radio abated, that issue holding about steady. Fractional losses were registered by American Telephone and U. S. Steel.

Corporate news was meagre, and most traders were content to pursue a watchful waiting attitude. The war debt question remained uppermost in Wall-st's mind, but there was no unanimity of opinion as to how the problem should be met. Sterling dipped to the lowest point since December, as international banking houses were inclining to the opinion that the Dec. 15 debt payment would be required. But some quarters regarded the war debt question as more an excuse for market uncertainty than a basic factor.

After more mature consideration, Wall-st's attitude toward the Radio consent decree appeared to be one of relief at having the long-controversy ended.

Union Pacific was the largest railroad system to date to report its October net operating income, and the total of $33,778,907 showed a fair increase over September. Preliminary estimates of total crude oil production last week indicated a small decrease.

Hog Price Levels Move Downward

Packers Assume Attitude Of Indifference—Demand Is Narrow

Chicago.—(P)—Narrow demand for hog products made packers extremely independent in the matter of acquiring fresh slaughter supplies, and price levels moved into lower brackets at the outset today. Limited marketings and cool weather meant nothing to the trade. Initial action was supported by small operators and eastern buyers who brought cautiously at 5-10c lower figures than prevailed at the best time or steady to weak with the average of the previous day.

Killing groves, exclusive of pigs, cost $3.31 a cwt on Monday, just a shade above Friday's average price, and today's cost promised to land only 15c above the lowest mark reached in more than 50 years. Shippers sought 150 to 170 lb. hogs paying $3.40-3.50 for them, while the good to choice 200-lb. animals were sold at $3.35 and downward. Packing plants received 3,000 hogs direct billing and 5,000 state ones carried over from the previous day.

Cattle receipts of 8,000 were in line with advance estimates, but proved larger than the trade had immediate use for. Poultry demand having left beef rates in branch houses heavy with undisposed of carcasses. Packers received no direct and had no need of them. A weak undertone pervaded the trade, action being slow and the market dull throughout the forenoon.

Drastic curtailment of sheep and lamb marketings was expected to bring buyers to time, especially in view of the fact that only one car of lambs arrived today billed direct. Higher prices were asked and while buyers resisted opening quotations ruled stronger.
